Ike No Longer Convalescent, Doctors Say

Chipper President
Will Fly Back To Washington Today

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Aug. 27 (P)—President Eisenhower, his convalescence from surgery ended, will travel back to Washington tomorrow to chart his re-election campaign plans and get a detailed report on the Suez situation.

Feeling chipper after four days of golf, the President plans to take off aboard his private plane, Columbine III. He and Mrs. Eisenhower will depart from the Naval Air Station at nearby Monterey, Calif. The flight to the capital takes about nine hours.

At a news conference here today reporters asked White House press secretary James C. Hagerty whether Eisenhower's doctors now feel his convalescence from major abdominal surgery on June 9 is at an end.

Recovery Period Past

"I would think the answer to that would be: Yes, they do," Hagerty replied.

The press secretary said he could not pinpoint the precise time at which the physicians decided the President no longer was a convalescent, but that the recovery period now is behind him.

Since the President came to Pebble Beach the White House has announced his weight at 168½ pounds, a half a pound more than when he entered the hospital June 8. In the hospital he was down at one point to about 157 pounds.

Hagerty has steadfastly declined to talk any politics since the President arrived at the exclusive Cypress Point Club here last Thursday night a few hours after accepting nomination for a second term at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

Conference In Wind

And Hagerty has said repeatedly that Eisenhower himself has talked campaign plans with no one during this vacation.

But he reportedly will get together with Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall and other GOP leaders a few days after returning to Washington. Campaign strategy and travel plans will be mapped then.

Clement Urges Clean Campaign

DALLAS, Aug. 27 (P)—Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee today urged Democrats and Republicans to wage a "high level" campaign during the 1956 presidential race.

Speaking before an insurance law section at the 79th annual American Bar Assn. convention, Clement said he believes the "American people are going to demand a high level campaign by both parties this year."

The governor, who blasted the Republicans on all fronts in his keynote address to the Democratic National Convention, said, "There is no rhyme or reason for mudslinging, innuendoes, personality clashes, or other types of gutter politics."

Clement advised both parties to "fight hard, but fight clean." He said President Eisenhower will have "to run on his record this year, unlike 1952. From that record has arisen the issues" that will dominate the campaign, he said.

Clement said the presidential campaign will draw the international spotlight since "our political policies and decisions . . . affects millions of people in many other lands."

Navy Bomber Wrecks Two Homes

Four Killed As Plane Crashes Into Homes

SANFORD, Fla., Aug. 27 (P)—A big Navy attack bomber crashed into two homes today killing its three crewmen and a child.

A mother, father and young son were burned severely. Another father was blown into his carport and escaped with only a shaking up.

Sue Lowe, 3, was found on the porch of her wrecked home, burned to death.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lowe, her parents, and David Lowe, 4, their other child, were severely burned and taken to a hospital. Lowe had just come home from work for lunch when the plane hit.

The Lowe home was badly damaged and partly burned.

The home of W. B. Brown, a former Navy chief petty officer, was hit first. It was demolished by the crash and the splinters destroyed by fire.

Brown said he knew the plane was in trouble and that he went to the back door to see.

That movement saved his life. The plane hit at that moment, blowing him into the carport.

It then skidded into the Lowe residence.

All that was left of the aircraft was a portion of the tail assembly.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to be coming in for a landing on the air station strip just three blocks from the scene of the crash.

It clipped the tops of some pine trees, then went into the residences.

Three More Brink's Jurors Are Selected

BOSTON, Aug. 27 (P)—The 8th, 9th and 10th jurors went into the box today at the beginning of the fourth week of the million-dollar Brink's robbery trial.

Four more remain to be chosen before taking testimony will begin. These four include two alternates held as a reserve in case any of the jurors becomes sick or otherwise incapacitated.

So far no women have been accepted although many have been examined for possible jury service.

Scientist Objects To AEC 'Playdown' Of Fallout Peril

STORRS, Conn., Aug. 27 (P)—An Atomic Energy Commission staff scientist today took issue with the majority of the commission itself regarding a statement he said took "an unjustifiably optimistic view" of the potential hazard from radioactive strontium in fallout from atomic tests.

Radioactive strontium is one of many radioactive products released in the detonation of A-bombs and H-bombs. Many atomic experts, including the AEC itself, have said that it is potentially the most hazardous of all "fallout" materials—provided enough of it accumulates in the body. This is because it has a tendency to be retained in the bone structure, and therefore might cause bone cancer if enough of it were present in the body.

Nurse Admits Shaking Three Babies To Death

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27 (P)—A pediatric nurse who said children sometimes "get on my nerves" admitted today she beat or shook three infants to death, the county coroner reported.

Coroner James J. Corrigan said the 6-foot, 260-pound woman also admitted injuring two others. She broke the leg of a three-month-old girl last year, Corrigan said.

Virginia B. Jaspers, 33, daughter of a former state senator and New Haven Railroad official, was taken into custody today after a medical examiner's investigation allegedly showed an 11-day-old girl died last Thursday under "suspicious circumstances."

Baby Wouldn't Take Formula

Police Chief Francis V. McManus quoted Miss Jaspers as saying she shook the baby so violently it died. She said she did it because the infant would not take its formula.

Corrigan said Miss Jaspers admitted shaking a 3-month-old girl to death in 1948, and another infant four or five years ago.

"It was all uncontrollable," Corrigan quoted her as saying. "I didn't know why I did it. Children sometimes get on my nerves."

Child Suffered Brain Injury

Miss Jaspers was reported by Corrigan to have grabbed the baby who died Thursday by both arms, pressing her thumbs against her chest. She said she shook the infant violently and the head bobbed rapidly. Corrigan said. When she noted the infant's breathing became faint, she put her down, the coroner said.

Corrigan added the child also suffered a brain injury.

The baby was that of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kapsinow.

The body was taken to a New Haven hospital for examination by Dr. Sterling P. Taylor, acting medical examiner. McManus said the medical examiner noted "suspicious circumstances" in connection with the death and notified the coroner who alerted the police.

Segregation Steps Up For 'Bama Vote

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 27 (P)—Segregation-conscious Alabama voters will decide tomorrow on two measures designed to prevent race mixing in the schools and public recreational and housing facilities.

One proposed constitutional amendment would give parents a "freedom of choice" in sending their children to segregated schools and empower the Legislature to abolish any grade or high school threatened with integration.

The other would permit cities and counties to sell or give away public parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, golf courses, or public housing projects if necessary to keep Negroes and whites from using them together.

Adlai Says '52 Crusade Now 'Circus'

SANTA FE, N.M., Aug. 27 (P)—Adlai Stevenson kicked off the Democratic presidential campaign today to a colorful, if unheralded, start in a blazing sun in Santa Fe Plaza where he dedicated the ticket to meeting "the wants of the people."

And, in a subsequent closed-door conference with Democratic leaders he pledged that he and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, "will talk sense—and drive it home while the Republicans drive their bikes and their bandwagons."

"We will make it clear that the crusade of 1952 has become a circus," Stevenson told party workers from seven states with 57 electoral votes.

States represented were Wyoming, Colorado, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Arizona, and New Mexico.

He said in contrast to the "slicker show" put on by the Republican National Convention, the Democrats ran a "wide-open" convention in the American political tradition.

'Lot Of Joe Smiths'

"The Joe Smiths weren't shut up," he said. "They ran the meeting, and there are a lot of Joe Smiths in this country."

Crowds estimated by police from 5,000 to 8,000, some in Mexican, some in Indian costumes, gave Stevenson and Kefauver a shouting campaign inaugural when they flew here from Chicago on the first lap of a 7,000-mile grass roots trip to lay the groundwork for day and night campaigning.

In the closed-door speech, made public by his new press secretary, Clayton Fritchey, Stevenson made no bones about the fact that the Democrats "have a mansized job on our hands this fall."

"We will talk about the issues; but we will listen as well as talk—and we are starting here and now to listen in these pre-campaign meetings around the country to the people who really run this country—the Joe Smiths."

Demos Outnumber GOP

"Estes and I can talk ourselves black in the face, shake a million hands, and whistle-stop this country up and down and sideways. But this election is going to be won or lost, depending on what is done in the precincts, and when I say won or lost, I mean won. We know there are more Democrats in this country than there are Republicans. And the reason for this is simply that we stand for what the great majority of the people in this country stand for."

Stevenson said that a shift in votes in 1952 cost that election, but the shift was reversed completely in the 1954 congressional, state and local elections.

"And I want to point out, too, that all it takes to change that 1952 result is the shift of less than one million votes in 14 key states."

Heiress And TV Director Marry

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (P)—Heiress Gloria Vanderbilt and Sidney Lumet, television director, were married today at the home of playwright Sidney Kingsley.

The wedding plans were disclosed when the pair went to the Municipal Building for a license. An attorney obtained a waiver of the normal 24-hour waiting period and the ceremony took place shortly afterward.

The couple—both are 32—have been linked romantically for some time, but on several occasions she declined to disclose any wedding plans.

Miss Vanderbilt has been married twice previously. She married Pat DiCicco, a Hollywood agent, in 1941. They parted three years later.

Three months later, on April 21, 1945, she was married in Mexico to Leopold Stokowski, renowned symphony orchestra leader.

The marriage ended in a Mexican divorce last Oct. 31, and she was awarded custody of their two children.

Lumet was formerly married to actress Rita Gam, and that marriage also ended in a divorce July 14, 1955.

Miss Vanderbilt, a great-granddaughter of railroad builder Cornelius Vanderbilt, was the center during her childhood of a sensational custody suit between her mother, Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and an aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

AFL-CIO Acts Against Union Fund Misuse

One Member Group
Faces Suspension,
Others Under Fire

FOREST PARK, Pa., Aug. 27 (P)—The AFL-CIO today cracked down on three member unions for alleged corrupt handling of welfare funds and ruled that one faces early suspension.

It was the first move by the AFL-CIO since its merger last December to carry out an announced aim of rooting out any corrupt influences in the labor movement.

At the same time, AFL-CIO President George Meany challenged claims of speakers at last week's Republican National Convention that the GOP is the party friendly to labor.

"I wouldn't say that," Meany told reporters. "What they said about the American worker never having it so good, that's true. But I don't think the Republican party did it."

Four-Day Meeting

"It was the good old American dynamic economic system, which is still running strong in spite of what the Republicans are trying to do."

The 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council, headed by Meany, went into the union fund situation as the Council opened a four-day meeting at a lavish union-owned summer camp here in the Poconos Mountains.

Planned discussion of a possible AFL-CIO endorsement of the Democratic presidential ticket was put off until tomorrow because several council members arrived too late for today's session. A Democratic endorsement was believed likely but some influential leaders were counseling against endorsing either political party.

Probes To Continue

In the welfare fund cases, the Council accepted a report by its Ethical Practices Committee saying there was sufficient evidence of fund fraud in the Distillery Workers, Laundry Workers and Allied Industrial Workers unions to warrant further formal investigation.

The Council ruled that the Distillery Workers group, with 25,000 members, must show cause why it should not be suspended from the AFL-CIO. The Council said that at least $650,000 had been kicked back to union officials in connection with the union's welfare fund.

In the case of the other two unions—the Laundry Workers and the Allied Industrial Workers (formerly the AFL Auto Workers)—it was decided there was sufficient evidence at hand from a preliminary probe to continue with more detailed investigations.

Four Airmen Die When Jets Collide

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 27 (P)—Four airmen were killed today when two Air Force T33 jet trainers collided, crashed and burst into flames near the runway at Moody Air Force Base.

The planes, one from Moody and the other from Eglin AFB, Fla., were approaching the runway for landings when the crash occurred. They collided about 200 feet from the ground and about 1,000 feet from the end of the runway.

Three of the dead were identified by the Moody public information office as Capt. Ray J. Shipley of Mapleton, Iowa; Maj. Robert T. Malby of Antigo, Wis.; and S. Sgt. Alwyn E. Padgett, 24, of Valparaiso, Fla. Name of the other man was withheld, pending notification of next of kin.

Egypt Seizes Two Britons On Charges Of Espionage

CAIRO, Aug. 27 (P)—Egyptian security police today arrested two Britons and charged they headed a spy ring dealing in military secrets.

The two were identified as James Swinburn of the Arab News Agency and Charles Pittuck.

An Egyptian named El Sayed Amin Mahmud also was arrested and accused of being a member of the alleged ring.

Police said the three were arrested at Swinburn's Cairo home while in conference.

Authorities said Swinburn acknowledged that he was in direct contact with two diplomats of an unidentified foreign embassy and received instructions directly from them.

IN SENATE RACE—George P. Mahoney (above), Baltimore County paving contractor, last night was elected by the State Central Committee to replace ailing Millard E. Tydings as Maryland's Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Mahoney, runnerup to Tydings in the close primary last May 7, was picked over Mrs. Eleanor Tydings, wife of the former U.S. senator who quit his comeback campaign eight days ago because of illness.

The vote was 97-55 in a tempestuous 90-minute meeting marked by boos and cries of "steamroller" from the gallery.

Mahoney will oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler, to whom Tydings lost in 1950 after serving 24 consecutive years in the Senate.

Egypt Expected To Accept Suez Talk Bid Today

CAIRO, Aug. 27 (P)—President Nasser will reply tomorrow to an invitation from London to discuss the Suez Canal crisis with a five-nation committee, an official Egyptian source said today.

The answer is expected to be yes—but with a firm understanding Egypt is not thereby bound to accept a plan for international control backed by 18 nations at last week's London Suez conference.

The source said the Egyptian Embassy in London will hand Nasser's note to Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia, head of the special committee delegated to talk with Nasser.

A date for a meeting has yet to be fixed. The committee wants the talks to begin quickly.

Cairo informants said Nasser will insist the whole gamut of problems over Suez be discussed, not just the plan for international control.

The pressure on Egypt has risen since Nasser took over the internationally-owned Suez Canal Co. in July 26 in the name of Egypt. British and French military forces were moved into the Mediterranean poised for action. Operations of the canal itself were threatened by a possible walkout of foreign pilots.

Nasser has tried to keep the door open to peaceful talks as the pressure rose. He has offered to guarantee freedom of navigation through the canal for all user nations, either by individual pacts or a collective treaty. He undoubtedly will discuss this with the committee.

Egyptians complained Britain and France were trying to cripple the Suez Canal by putting the squeeze on the trained pilots who steer ships through the 103-mile waterway.

They said the two nations—which have the largest financial interest in the Suez Canal Co.—are trying to persuade their nationals who are pilots to quit.

Man Who Flew With Wilbur Wright Dies

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 27 (P)—Jay A. Seitz, 83, who claimed he was the first person to fly in an airplane as a passenger, died yesterday in a hospital here.

Seitz made an airplane flight with Wilbur Wright in order to take pictures from the first aircraft invented by the Wright brothers.

The authorities said the three are being held at the Ministry of the Interior and that the public prosecutor will decide whether they are to be tried by a military or civilian court.

Pittuck was identified as a staff member of the Marconi Radio-Telegraph Co. of Egypt.

Authorities said Swinburn named four Egyptians as members of the alleged ring: Ahmed Saleh, Mahmud Nasser el Din el Kattani, Samuel Attia and El Sayed Amin Mahmud.

Swinburn, about 50, was business manager of the Arab News Agency in Cairo. It is a British-owned regional agency which distributed news in Middle East from the British news agency Reuters.

Mrs. Tydings On Short End Of 97-55 Vote

Primary Runnerup
Will Oppose Butler
In Senate Contest

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (P)—Here is the roll call vote by which George P. Mahoney was nominated by Maryland Democrats tonight to the United States Senate.

For Mahoney (97):

Allegany County (7 unit votes), Anne Arundel (7), Baltimore City 2nd District (7), Balto 3rd (7), Calvert (3), Caroline (3), Carroll (3), Cecil (4), Charles (3), Dorchester (5), Frederick (3), Garrett (4), Harford (5), Howard (3), St. Marys (3), Somerset (4), Talbot (4), Washington (7), Wicomico (5), Worcester (4).

For Mrs. Eleanor Tydings (55): Balto 1st (7), Balto 4th (7), Balto 5th (7), Balto 6th (7), Baltimore County (7), Kent (3), Montgomery (7), Prince Georges (7), Queen Annes (3).

Mrs. Tydings, 52-year-old daughter of former diplomat Joseph E. Davies, had the backing of Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and other veteran party leaders in her bid to take up the standard relinquished by her husband because a severe attack of shingles.

Speakers seconding her nomination urged that Mrs. Tydings be given a chance to face Butler, whose aides were criticized by Senate investigators for using "back-street type" tactics in the 1950 campaign.

Mahoney marshalled enough strength at tonight's session, however, to gain a second senatorial nomination within four years.

A political novice until he became chairman of the State Racing Commission during World War II, he polled 406,000 votes against Republican J. Glenn Beall in 1952, but lost the general election.

He also failed in tries for the gubernatorial nomination in 1950 and 1954.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin won the general election in both those years, giving Republicans the governorship as well as both Senate seats in a State where they are outnumbered by Democrats better than two-to-one.

Vote-Counting Wrangle

Mahoney's nomination climaxed a bitter controversy over the manner in which votes would be counted. Tydings backers had moved that each member of the committee be allowed his vote independently, but Chairman T. Barton Harrington ruled that they must be cast under the unit-rule system.

Under this method each of the 23 counties and six Baltimore City legislative districts had as many votes in the committee as it has members of the State Legislature.

The candidate with the majority of votes in a subdivision received all of that unit's votes in the balloting for the nomination.

Mahoney had announced after the May 7 primary he would support Tydings, who was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee before his defeat by Butler. Tydings was admittedly anxious to campaign against the man whose assistants were criticized by a Senate elections subcommittee for, among other things, use of a fake picture in 1950.

Copies of the composite picture—two photographs made to look like one—purporting to show Tydings in jovial conversation with Communist Party Chief Earl Browder were distributed a few days before the election.

Tydings had publicly accused Butler of not having "the manhood to denounce" use of the picture and indicated his general

Today, Dr. John Wolfe said he "objected" to a recent statement by all but one member of the five-man AEC commission that "it appears that at the present level of weapons testing, the present and potential contribution of Strontium 90 to the world ecology is not a significant factor."

Wolfe himself is an ecologist—that is, a scientist devoted to studying the relationships between man, animals and plants and their environment, including the natural waters, the soil and air.

Addressing a special symposium on "radiation ecology" at the annual convention of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, convened at the University of Connecticut, Wolfe declared that "as ecologists, we should object" to the AEC's statement.

Stevenson said that a shift in votes in 1952 cost that election, but the shift was reversed completely in the 1954 congressional, state and local elections.

"And I want to point out, too, that all it takes to change that 1952 result is the shift of less than one million votes in 14 key states."

Stevenson said that a shift in votes in 1952 cost that election, but the shift was reversed completely in the 1954 congressional, state and local elections.

"It was all uncontrollable," Corrigan quoted her as saying. "I didn't know why I did it. Children sometimes get on my nerves."

Child Suffered Brain Injury

Miss Jaspers was reported by Corrigan to have grabbed the baby who died Thursday by both arms, pressing her thumbs against her chest. She said she shook the infant violently and the head bobbed rapidly, Corrigan said. When she noted the infant's breathing became faint, she put her down, the coroner said.

Corrigan added the child also suffered a brain injury.

The baby was that of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kapsinow.

The body was taken to a New Haven hospital for examination by Dr. Sterling P. Taylor, acting medical examiner. McManus said the medical examiner noted "suspicious circumstances" in connection with the death and notified the coroner who alerted the police.

Three months later, on April 21, 1945, she was married in Mexico to Leopold Stokowski, renowned symphony orchestra leader.

The marriage ended in a Mexican divorce last Oct. 31, and she was awarded custody of their two children.

Lumet was formerly married to actress Rita Gam, and that marriage also ended in a divorce July 14, 1955.

Miss Vanderbilt, a great-great-granddaughter of railroad builder Cornelius Vanderbilt, was the center during her childhood of a sensational custody suit between her mother, Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and an aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

AFL-CIO Acts Against Union Fund Misuse

One Member Group
Faces Suspension,
Others Under Fire

FOREST PARK, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP)—The AFL-CIO today cracked down on three member unions for alleged corrupt handling of welfare funds and ruled that one faces early suspension.

It was the first move by the AFL-CIO since its merger last December to carry out an announced aim of rooting out any corrupt influences in the labor movement.

At the same time, AFL-CIO President George Meany challenged claims of speakers at last week's Republican National Convention that the GOP is the party friendly to labor.

"I wouldn't say that," Meany told reporters. "What they said about the American worker never having it so good, that's true. But I don't think the Republican party did it."

Four-Day Meeting

"It was the good old American dynamic economic system, which is still running strong in spite of what the Republicans are trying to do."

The 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council, headed by Meany, went into the union fund situation as the Council opened a four-day meeting at a lavish union-owned summer camp here in the Poconos Mountains.

Planned discussion of a possible AFL-CIO endorsement of the Democratic presidential ticket was put off until tomorrow because several council members arrived too late for today's session. A Democratic endorsement was believed likely but some influential leaders were counseling against endorsing either political party.

Probes To Continue

In the welfare fund cases, the Council accepted a report by its Ethical Practices Committee saying there was sufficient evidence of fund fraud in the Distillery Workers, Laundry Workers and Allied Industrial Workers unions to warrant further formal investigation.

The Council ruled that the Distillery Workers group, with 25,000 members, must show cause why it should not be suspended from the AFL-CIO. The Council said that at least $650,000 had been kicked back to union officials in connection with the union's welfare fund.

In the case of the other two unions—the Laundry Workers and the Allied Industrial Workers (formerly the AFL Auto Workers)—it was decided there was sufficient evidence at hand from a preliminary probe to continue with more detailed investigations.

Four Airmen Die
When Jets Collide

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 27 (AP)—Four airmen were killed today when two Air Force T33 jet trainers collided, crashed and burst into flames near the runway at Moody Air Force Base.

The planes, one from Moody and the other from Eglin AFB, Fla., were approaching the runway for landings when the crash occurred. They collided about 200 feet from the ground and about 1,000 feet from the end of the runway.

Three of the dead were identified by the Moody public information office as Capt. Ray J. Shipley of Mapleton, Iowa; Maj. Robert T. Malby of Antigo, Wis.; and S. Sgt. Alwyn E. Padgett, 24, of Valparaiso, Fla. Name of the other man was withheld, pending notification of next of kin.

Man Who Flew With
Wilbur Wright Dies

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 27 (AP)—Jay A. Seitz, 83, who claimed he was the first person to fly in an airplane as a passenger, died yesterday in a hospital here.

Seitz made an airplane flight with Wilbur Wright in order to take pictures from the first aircraft invented by the Wright brothers.

Seitz was identified as a staff member of the Marconi Radio-Telegraph Co. of Egypt.

Authorities said Swinburn named four Egyptians as members of the alleged ring: Ahmed Saleh, Mahmud Nasser el Din el Kattani, Samuel Attia and El Sayed Amin Mahmud.

Swinburn, about 50, was business manager of the Arab News Agency in Cairo. It is a British-owned regional agency which distributed news in Middle East from the British news agency Reuters.

The authorities said the three are being held at the Ministry of the Interior and that the public prosecutor will decide whether they are to be tried by a military or civilian court.

IN SENATE RACE—George P. Mahoney (above), Baltimore County paving contractor, last night was elected by the State Central Committee to replace ailing Millard E. Tydings as Maryland's Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Mahoney, runnerup to Tydings in the close primary last May 7, was picked over Mrs. Eleanor Tydings, wife of the former U. S. senator who quit his comeback campaign eight days ago because of illness.

The vote was 97-55 in a tempestuous 90-minute meeting marked by boos and cries of "steamroller" from the gallery.

Mahoney will oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler, to whom Tydings lost in 1950 after serving 24 consecutive years in the Senate.

Egypt Expected To Accept Suez Talk Bid Today

CAIRO, Aug. 27 (AP)—President Nasser will reply tomorrow to an invitation from London to discuss the Suez Canal crisis with a five-nation committee, an official Egyptian source said today.

The answer is expected to be yes—but with a firm understanding Egypt is not thereby bound to accept a plan for international control backed by 18 nations at last week's London Suez conference.

The source said the Egyptian Embassy in London will hand Nasser's note to Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia, head of the special committee delegated to talk with Nasser.

A date for a meeting has yet to be fixed. The committee wants the talks to begin quickly.

Cairo informants said Nasser will insist the whole gamut of problems over Suez be discussed, not just the plan for international control.

The pressure on Egypt has risen since Nasser took over the internationally owned Suez Canal Co. in July 26 in the name of Egypt.

British and French military forces were moved into the Mediterranean poised for action. Operations of the canal itself were threatened by a possible walkout of foreign pilots.

Nasser has tried to keep the door open to peaceful talks as the pressure rose. He has offered to guarantee freedom of navigation through the canal for all user nations, either by individual pacts or a collective treaty. He undoubtedly will discuss this with the committee.

Egyptians complained Britain and France were trying to cripple the Suez Canal by putting the squeeze on the trained pilots who steer ships through the 103-mile waterway.

They said the two nations—which have the largest financial interest in the Suez Canal Co.—are trying to persuade their nationals who are pilots to quit.

Mrs. Tydings On Short End Of 97-55 Vote

Primary Runnerup
Will Oppose Butler
In Senate Contest

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (AP)—George P. Mahoney, 54-year-old Baltimore County paving contractor, was elected by the State Central Committee tonight to replace ailing Millard E. Tydings as Maryland's Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Mahoney, runnerup to Tydings in the close primary last May 7, was picked over Mrs. Eleanor Tydings, wife of the former U. S. senator who quit his comeback campaign eight days ago because of illness.

The vote was 97-55 in a tempestuous 90-minute meeting marked by boos and cries of "steamroller" from the gallery.

Mahoney will oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler, to whom Tydings lost in 1950 after serving 24 consecutive years in the Senate.

Allegany County Votes To Mahoney

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (AP)—Here is the roll call vote by which George P. Mahoney was nominated by Maryland Democrats tonight to the United States Senate.

For Mahoney (97):

Allegany County (7 unit votes), Anne Arundel (7), Baltimore City 2nd District (7), Balto 3rd (7), Calvert (3), Caroline (3), Carroll (5), Cecil (4), Charles (3), Dorchester (5), Frederick (7), Garrett (4), Harford (5), Howard (3), St. Marys (3), Somerset (4), Talbot (4), Washington (7), Wicomico (5), Worcester (4).

For Mrs. Eleanor Tydings (55): Balto 1st (7), Balto 4th (7), Balto 5th (7), Balto 6th (7), Baltimore County (7), Kent (3), Montgomery (7), Prince Georges (7), Queen Annes (3).

Mrs. Tydings, 52-year-old daughter of former diplomat Joseph E. Davies, had the backing of Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and other veteran party leaders in her bid to take up the standard relinquished by her husband because a severe attack of shingles.

Speakers seconding her nomination urged that Mrs. Tydings be given a chance to face Butler, whose aides were criticized by Senate investigators for using "back-street type" tactics in the 1950 campaign.

Mahoney marshalled enough strength at tonight's session, however, to gain a second senatorial nomination within four years.

A political novice until he became chairman of the State Racing Commission during World War II, he polled 406,000 votes against Republican J. Glenn Beall in 1952, but lost the general election.

He also failed in tries for the gubernatorial nomination in 1950 and 1954.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin won the general election in both those years, giving Republicans the governorship as well as both Senate seats in a State where they are outnumbered by Democrats better than two-to-one.

Vote-Counting Wrangle

Mahoney's nomination climaxed a bitter controversy over the manner in which votes would be counted. Tydings backers had moved that each member of the committee be allowed his vote independently, but Chairman T. Barton Harrington ruled that they must be cast under the unit-rule system.

Under this method each of the 23 counties and six Baltimore City legislative districts had as many votes in the committee as it has members of the State Legislature. The candidate with the majority of votes in a subdivision received all of that unit's votes in the balloting for the nomination.

Mahoney had announced after the May 7 primary he would support Tydings, who was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee before his defeat by Butler. Tydings was admittedly anxious to campaign against the man whose assistants were criticized by a Senate elections subcommittee for, among other things, use of a fake picture in 1950.

Copies of the composite picture—two photographs made to look like one—purporting to show Tydings in jovial conversation with Communist Party Chief Earl Browder were distributed a few days before the election.

Tydings had publicly accused Butler of not having "the manhood to denounce" use of the picture and indicated his general

"Common Sense" Guide For Security Procedure By Military Is Prepared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (P)—The Pentagon is preparing specific guidelines to promote "common sense" conclusions in screening the loyalty and security of individuals before they enter military service.

The guidelines will be distributed to all officials handling security investigations before the armed services start using a new security questionnaire on Nov. 1. Secretary of Defense Wilson proclaimed the "common sense" approach last year when he announced that security checks would be completed before, rather than after, a man was drafted or volunteered for military duty. Wilson followed this up on June 19 with a directive ordering uniform security procedure for all the military services.

In that directive, Wilson said the ultimate decision on accepting or retaining a person in the armed forces "must be an over-all common sense determination based on all available information."

Pursuing this approach, the Defense Department on July 12 distributed a revised security questionnaire which will replace the old "loyalty certificate" Nov. 1.

The new questionnaire contains the same list of organizations designated by the attorney general as being subversive. But the new questionnaire differs from the old certificate in that it explains fully and in simple language the reasons why the armed forces require all of their members to be "reliable, trustworthy, of good character, and of complete and unswerving loyalty" to the United States.

The old certificate, in a brief introduction to the list of subversive organizations, stated the same things, but in formal, legal language.

The new questionnaire says, for instance, that membership in one of the forbidden organizations "may not, of itself," make a person ineligible for military service. Both the old and new papers permit a military service candidate to claim the Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to give information.

The "common sense" approach to security determinations is carried out in the new questionnaire by instructing those filling it out to say how old they were when they were members of any suspected organization or group and to explain the circumstances fully. The old certificate had space for "remarks" but gave the person filling it out no guidance as to how or whether he should explain that he might have been a member of a listed group, or known somebody who was a member when he was very young.

Soviet Nuclear Blast Not Large

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (P)—The latest Russian nuclear explosion was characterized today by an atomic physicist as not a large blast "as we know it."

He said it may have been the warhead for an intermediate ballistic missile.

Dr. Ralph Lapp, wartime A-bomb project worker and now a private consultant said the charge was not powerful enough for an intercontinental missile, which has a range of 5,000 miles. An intermediate missile's range is about 1,500 miles.

Lapp noted that the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement yesterday of the Soviet blast revealed publicly for the first time the location of Russia's testing range in southwest Siberia.

"If they say southwest Siberia," Lapp said, "that is in the Lake Baikal area. It is well known they have a missile test center in that area."

In the past, Lapp has been critical of what he termed the AEC's policy of withholding information on nuclear development both here and abroad.

He said discussion about Friday's Russian blast "would be pure speculation" because of the limited details released by the AEC yesterday.

But, on the basis of AEC's report that it was a "nuclear device with a yield of less than a megaton"—one million tons of TNT—Lapp said "it is not the kind for an intercontinental missile because of the aiming error."

Budget Bureau Moves To Trim Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (P)—The Budget Bureau today ordered a new campaign to trim the federal payroll, directing all government agencies to check carefully before filling vacancies resulting from retirements.

Budget Director Percival F. Brundage made the request in a brief statement sent to government departments.

Meanwhile, Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said he is creating a special study group to explore the need for another pay boost for federal employees in 1957. He is chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee which handles such legislation.

There are nearly 2,300,000 civilians on the federal payroll and Johnston predicted the 85th Congress, which convenes in January, will grant them a pay raise. He added:

"And it will not be vetoed by the President, because we will then have a Democratic president in the White House."

Johnston set forth his views in a statement which he also planned to read tomorrow at the annual meeting here of the American Federation of Government Employees.

Johnston said it is clear that living costs have made an "upward spiral" in the two years since Congress voted salary increases averaging about 7.5 per cent for Civil Service federal workers and 6 to 8.1 per cent for postal workers.

Dietrich Snubs Young Actress

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (P)—A budding 16-year-old movie actress arrived from Italy today with a tale of a snub from queenly Marlene Dietrich, star of a film the girl appeared in.

The young actress is Natalie Trundy, who has modeled and been on television since she was 10. She made her screen debut in an Italian movie with Miss Dietrich and Vittorio de Sica.

"She took a dislike to me the minute she saw me and would never speak to me, only in the picture where I was supposed to love her," Miss Trundy told reporters after she arrived on the liner Saturnia.

The crowning blow, according to Miss Trundy, was at a Rome press conference where photographers asked her to pose with Miss Dietrich.

"She threw her gloves in my face and walked out of the room," Miss Trundy said.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun quoted Miss Dietrich as replying in Rome:

"She's young and she needs the publicity. She probably would have got no publicity without this tirade."

Mrs. Tydings

election campaign would stir memories of his clashes years ago with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

FDR Urged Tydings' Defeat
Roosevelt had openly urged Tydings' defeat in the 1938 primary because of the Maryland senator's refusal to support administration measures on Social Security and reforms.

Shortly before his loss to Butler, Tydings had clashed with McCarthy on the issue of disloyalty among government employees. McCarthy charged Tydings with engineering a Senate investigating subcommittee's "whitewash" of the Wisconsin senator's statements that communists infested government-employee circles.

Tydings denied the charge. He had said he would revive the debate in this campaign.

After Tydings' withdrawal, Mahoney renewed his claim to the nomination on the basis of his loss to Tydings by only 6,000 votes in the primary.

The ruling by Harrington on the unit vote was greeted by boos, catcalls and cries of "steamroller" from some of Mrs. Tydings' supporters in the gallery of more than 200 at tonight's meeting in an uptown hotel.

Her backers generally felt they would have had a better chance of success under the individual vote system rather than the unit-rule method.

'Toughest' Movie Censor Dies At 89

MEMPHIS, Aug. 27 (P)—Lloyd T. Binford, 89, long regarded by the movie industry as the nation's toughest censor, died in a nursing home today.

Death came to the colorful and controversial figure eight months after he retired as chief of the Memphis Board of Censors.

Binford was chairman and dominant figure of the board for 28 years. During much of that time he stayed busy scissoring the "sin" out of cinemas and plays to become what he called the "most notorious censor in the world."

The law that set up the board gave it broad authority to decide what shows were immoral or "injurious to public safety, health, morals, or welfare."

Binford's critics called the board the nation worst. But his supporters staunchly defended it.

Child Custody Wrangle Settled

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 27 (P)—Legal difficulties standing between an Annapolis widow and her six-year-old daughter have been settled out of court.

Mrs. Rosalinde N. Byrne and her daughter, Martha Jane, were reunited Saturday after a month long legal squabble which included a kidnapping charge against the mother.

The separation of mother and daughter dates back to the death of Mrs. Byrne's husband, Robert J., on Aug. 15, 1954.

When Mrs. Byrne went to work to support her seven children, she left the youngest child, Martha Jane, in the care of a 67-year-old aunt, Mrs. Margaret Byrne of Fair Lawn, N. J.

The widow later said she did not know papers she signed at that time gave the great-aunt legal guardianship of Martha Jane. She said she thought the papers gave permission for the child to attend kindergarten in New Jersey.

When Mrs. Byrne picked up her daughter in Fair Lawn last month, the great-aunt filed a kidnapping charge, but the grand jury did not indict.

A custody hearing was set for Sept. 7, but another legal move has finished the case. Last week the mother brought suit against the great-aunt charging "false arrest, slander, mental cruelty and damages." The elder Mrs. Byrne then agreed to release Martha Jane to her mother, and the suit was withdrawn.

Tenn. High School Opened To Negroes

CLINTON, Tenn., Aug. 27 (P)—Complying with a federal court order, Clinton High today opened its doors to Negro students to become the first state-supported secondary school in Tennessee to integrate.

A handful of boys picketed the school grounds carrying pro-segregation signs, but no attempt was made to prevent any Negro boys and girls from entering.

Principal D. J. Brittain Jr. described the school opening as orderly and said the vast majority of approximately 750 white students reported for classes. About a dozen of 15 Negro enrollees turned out.

Maryland State Fair Gates Will Open Tomorrow

TIMONIUM, Md., Aug. 27 (P)—Dan Cupid, that unseen ambassador of romance, will be lingering about Wednesday when the Maryland State Fair opens with the usual pomp and ceremony.

The 1956 fair will be a memorable occasion, marking as it does the 75th anniversary of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, Inc.

The gates will open at 9 a.m. on a program as traditional as the midway barker. Judging of prize cattle will begin immediately in the livestock pavilion.

There will be eight running races during the afternoon, featuring the "Baltimore County Day" and "WBAL-TV" purses. And that night a State Fair farm queen will be chosen in a contest before the grandstand.

Through it all, young Dan will be celebrating a triumph.

Six years ago, Robert M. Shirley of Chartley Farms at Reisterstown and Margaret Henry Parlette of Upperco met while they both were exhibiting steers in the 4-H Club beef cattle competition.

Dan was there and kindled his flame. It grew.

In the years since, Bob has exhibited his Clydesdale draft horses, often in competition with his father, Joseph W. Shirley, Jr. The elder Shirley is superintendent of the fair's draft horse department.

Margaret was often in the ring with her fiancé, helping him exhibit.

Bob, now an agricultural student at Cornell, and Margaret were married August 17. They have been honeymooning in Bermuda, but were to arrive home by plane tonight.

They arranged their plans so the end of the honeymoon would include the State Fair.

The 1956 fair, the "diamond jubilee", promises to be a record-breaker. More premium money is being offered than ever before—$96,000 compared to last year's record $85,000.

General Manager John M. Heil predicts the ever-increasing attendance record will reach 230,000 this year.

Supermarket Chains Hike Coffee Prices

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (P)—Coffee-drinking became more expensive today when several big supermarket chains raised the price of their private brands of coffee four cents.

Shoppers also can look for a three to four-cent increase in the price of nationally-advertised, vacuum-packed coffees in about a week or so, since the wholesale price has been hiked three cents by the big roasters of coffee.

Today's increases by the supermarkets means that their private-label coffees will sell for 89 cents, 99 cents and $1.03 a pound. Their own vacuum-packed brands will be $1.07.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. (A & P), the biggest national chain, and H. C. Bohack Co., a New York area chain, made the boost effective today. Safeway, also a nation-wide chain, will go up tomorrow and Grand Union, which has stores along the Eastern Seaboard, will hold off until Thursday.

Most chains also carry nationally-advertised, vacuum-packed coffees, which will be going up because of an increase in the wholesale price to $1.05 a pound.

Retail prices vary greatly in different regions and in different types of stores, but a source in the trade said the spread between wholesale and retail prices generally is about 10 to 12 cents a pound in most places.

This would put the popularly-advertised brands in the $1.15 to $1.17 area, although the amount of markup may differ greatly. In addition, premium coffees usually are 6 or 7 cents higher at both the wholesale and retail levels.

Budget Bureau Moves To Trim Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Budget Bureau today ordered a new campaign to trim the federal payroll, directing all government agencies to check carefully before filling vacancies resulting from retirements.

Budget Director Percival F. Brundage made the request in a brief statement sent to government departments.

Meanwhile, Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said he is creating a special study group to explore the need for another pay boost for federal employees in 1957. He is chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee which handles such legislation.

There are nearly 2,300,000 civilians on the federal payroll and Johnston predicted the 85th Congress, which convenes in January, will grant them a pay raise. He added:

"And it will not be vetoed by the President, because we will then have a Democratic president in the White House."

Johnston set forth his views in a statement which he also planned to read tomorrow at the annual meeting here of the American Federation of Government Employees.

Johnston said it is clear that living costs have made an "upward spiral" in the two years since Congress voted salary increases averaging about 7.5 per cent for Civil Service federal workers and 6 to 8.1 per cent for postal workers.

Dietrich Snubs Young Actress

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—A budding 16-year-old movie actress arrived from Italy today with a tale of a snub from queenly Marlene Dietrich, star of a film the girl appeared in.

The young actress is Natalie Trundy, who has modeled and been on television since she was 10. She made her screen debut in an Italian movie with Miss Dietrich and Vittorio de Sica.

"She took a dislike to me the minute she saw me and would never speak to me, only in the picture where I was supposed to love her," Miss Trundy told reporters after she arrived on the liner Saturnia.

The crowning blow, according to Miss Trundy, was at a Rome press conference where photographers asked her to pose with Miss Dietrich.

"She threw her gloves in my face and walked out of the room," Miss Trundy said.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun quoted Miss Dietrich as replying in Rome:

"She's young and she needs the publicity. She probably would have got no publicity without this tirade."

election campaign would stir memories of his clashes years ago with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

FDR Urged Tydings' Defeat

Roosevelt had openly urged Tydings' defeat in the 1938 primary because of the Maryland senator's refusal to support administration measures on Social Security and reforms.

Shortly before his loss to Butler, Tydings had clashed with McCarthy on the issue of disloyalty among government employees. McCarthy charged Tydings with engineering a Senate investigating subcommittee's "whitewash" of the Wisconsin senator's statements that communists infested government-employee circles.

Tydings denied the charge. He had said he would revive the debate in this campaign.

After Tydings' withdrawal, Mahoney renewed his claim to the nomination on the basis of his loss to Tydings by only 6,000 votes in the primary.

The ruling by Harrington on the unit vote was greeted by boos, catcalls and cries of "steamroller" from some of Mrs. Tydings' supporters in the gallery of more than 200 at tonight's meeting in an uptown hotel.

Her backers generally felt they would have had a better chance of success under the individual vote system rather than the unit-rule method.

'Toughest' Movie Censor Dies At 89

MEMPHIS, Aug. 27 (AP)—Lloyd T. Binford, 89, long regarded by the movie industry as the nation's toughest censor, died in a nursing home today.

Death came to the colorful and controversial figure eight months after he retired as chief of the Memphis Board of Censors.

Binford was chairman and dominant figure of the board for 28 years. During much of that time he stayed busy scissoring the "sin" out of cinemas and plays to become what he called the "most notorious censor in the world."

The law that set up the board gave it broad authority to decide what shows were immoral or "injurious to public safety, health, morals, or welfare."

Binford's critics called the board the nation worst. But his supporters staunchly defended it.

Child Custody Wrangle Settled

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 27 (AP)—Legal difficulties standing between an Annapolis widow and her six-year-old daughter have been settled out of court.

Mrs. Rosalinde N. Byrne and her daughter, Martha Jane, were reunited Saturday after a month long legal squabble which included a kidnapping charge against the mother.

The separation of mother and daughter dates back to the death of Mrs. Byrne's husband, Robert J., on Aug. 15, 1954.

When Mrs. Byrne went to work to support her seven children, she left the youngest child, Martha Jane, in the care of a 67-year-old aunt, Mrs. Margaret Byrne of Fair Lawn, N. J.

The widow later said she did not know papers she signed at that time gave the great-aunt legal guardianship of Martha Jane. She said she thought the papers gave permission for the child to attend kindergarten in New Jersey.

When Mrs. Byrne picked up her daughter in Fair Lawn last month, the great-aunt filed a kidnapping charge, but the grand jury did not indict.

A custody hearing was set for Sept. 7, but another legal move has finished the case. Last week the mother brought suit against the great-aunt charging "false arrest, slander, mental cruelty and damages." The elder Mrs. Byrne then agreed to release Martha Jane to her mother, and the suit was withdrawn.

Tenn. High School Opened To Negroes

CLINTON, Tenn., Aug. 27 (AP)—Complying with a federal court order, Clinton High today opened its doors to Negro students to become the first state-supported secondary school in Tennessee to integrate.

A handful of boys picketed the school grounds carrying segregation signs, but no attempt was made to prevent any Negro boys and girls from entering.

Principal D. J. Brittain Jr. described the school opening as orderly and said the vast majority of approximately 750 white students reported for classes. About a dozen of 15 Negro enrollees turned out.

Maryland State Fair Gates Will Open Tomorrow

TIMONIUM, Md., Aug. 27 (AP)—Dan Cupid, that unseen ambassador of romance, will be lingering about Wednesday when the Maryland State Fair opens with the usual pomp and ceremony.

The 1956 fair will be a memorable occasion, marking as it does the 75th anniversary of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, Inc.

The gates will open at 9 a.m. on a program as traditional as the midway barker. Judging of prize cattle will begin immediately in the livestock pavilion.

There will be eight running races during the afternoon, featuring the "Baltimore County Day" and "WBAL-TV" purses. And that night a State Fair queen will be chosen in a contest before the grandstand.

Through it all, young Dan will be celebrating a triumph.

Six years ago, Robert M. Shirley of Chartley Farms at Reisterstown and Margaret Henry Parlette of Upperco met while they both were exhibiting steers in the 4-H Club beef cattle competition.

Dan was there and kindled his flame. It grew.

In the years since, Bob has exhibited his Clydesdale draft horses, often in competition with his father, Joseph W. Shirley, Jr. The elder Shirley is superintendent of the fair's draft horse department.

Margaret was often in the ring with her fiancé, helping him exhibit.

Bob, now an agricultural student at Cornell, and Margaret were married August 17. They have been honeymooning in Bermuda, but were to arrive home by plane tonight.

They arranged their plans so the end of the honeymoon would include the State Fair.

The 1956 fair, the "diamond jubilee", promises to be a record-breaker. More premium money is being offered than ever before—$96,000 compared to last year's record $85,000.

General Manager John M. Heil predicts the ever-increasing attendance record will reach 280,000 this year.

Supermarket Chains Hike Coffee Prices

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Coffee-drinking became more expensive today when several big supermarket chains raised the price of their private brands of coffee four cents.

Shoppers also can look for a three to four-cent increase in the price of nationally-advertised, vacuum-packed coffees in about a week or so, since the wholesale price has been hiked three cents by the big roasters of coffee.

Today's increases by the supermarkets means that their private-label coffees will sell for 89 cents, 99 cents and $1.03 a pound. Their own vacuum-packed brands will be $1.07.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. (A & P), the biggest national chain, and H. C. Bohack Co., a New York area chain, made the boost effective today. Safeway, also a nation-wide chain, will go up tomorrow and Grand Union, which has stores along the Eastern Seaboard, will hold off until Thursday.

Most chains also carry nationally-advertised, vacuum-packed coffees, which will be going up because of an increase in the wholesale price to $1.05 a pound.

Retail prices vary greatly in different regions and in different types of stores, but a source in the trade said the spread between wholesale and retail prices generally is about 10 to 12 cents a pound in most places.

This would put the popularly-advertised brands in the $1.15 to $1.17 area, although the amount of markup may differ greatly. In addition, premium coffees usually are 6 or 7 cents higher at both the wholesale and retail levels.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Are You More Attractive Than You Know?

Nothing's more likely to put a girl on top of the world—than to find out she's more attractive than she thought she was. It could happen to you.

Take the matter of posture. Many women come very close to good posture without giving it much thought. If they did, and if they realized what a good start posture is toward being beautifully graceful, they'd have a new-found faith in their own attractiveness. Faith that's well justified, because good posture makes the most of any figure and more than that, it makes it natural to be graceful. It sets the head and shoulders proudly and brings the ease of movement a graceful woman always has. Any woman who has no defects to prevent it can perfect her posture, and when she does, she can carry herself like a queen.

Nature has given you bone and muscle structure that's so inclined toward grace in repose and movement that they're easy for you—there's more difficulty and strain in being awkward. Analyze your posture as it is—my booklet, "Your Posture," begins with a method of testing body alignment by which you can check it exactly yourself. This is followed by advice on posture correction, in case you've gotten off on the wrong foot, and then by exercise to make poor posture good, good posture perfect, and grace but a step from there. (The booklet's yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.)

Perhaps just because they are women, all women have natural grace. It's there to be developed or destroyed. And when it is a reality, grace is so much more than a joy to observe. To be graceful is a wonderful feeling, a subtle builder of confidence and serene personality. The awkward are never poised. The poised are always graceful.

Businessmen Protest Ban On Parking

Three Baltimore Avenue businessmen yesterday protested placing of a red line between Front Street and Henderson Avenue and contended the move will drive business away.

Harold K. Ritter, operator of a restaurant, J. B. Shanholtzer operator of the Brooks Hotel, and Patsy Idoni, who operates a shoe repair business, appeared before the Mayor and Council to protest the red "no parking" line and to ask consideration of other measures to relieve congestion in the area where Park Street, Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue intersect.

Some time ago, it had been suggested that parking be banned on the Baltimore Avenue side across from Central YMCA so through traffic could use one lane, the middle lane for traffic entering Park Street.

street and the other for traffic leaving Park to go on out Baltimore Avenue.

Ritter said he did not think the plan will work and added he believed the red line is "unfair" especially since the city had done so without consulting businessmen. He said his business depended a lot on the yellow line and he does not think it would be profitable with a red line there.

Ritter referred to easy traffic movement last Friday when a policeman was on duty in suggesting one method to relieve congestion. He also recommended that an alley in the rear of Central YMCA be opened along with others to take some of the vehicles off the Park-Baltimore Street and avenue intersection.

He said he wanted the yellow line back and the alleys opened.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said the red line was put there because of traffic and he was glad Ritter brought up his suggestions since there were a number of things he would like to do to help. Nowhere in the country is there a traffic problem like Cumberland's, Keegan said and he referred to a traffic survey or who noted the best solution would be to "wave a magic wand."

Keegan said he agreed with the suggestion that alleys should be used and pointed to Hagerstown and Frederick which have paved a number for traffic purposes.

Then he added: "If we had enough policemen, we wouldn't have to worry about traffic."

He explained the department has four men on the sick and injured

He explained the department has four men on the sick and injured list and recently obtained three probationers who must be accompanied by a regular officer.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz asked whether the city owns alleys which Ritter suggested be opened to traffic. Ritter replied with a question of his own about whether the city has the right to condemn in cases such as this? Idoni urged council to do what it can to help and pointed to his efforts to make and keep that section of town among the best. He said he has customers from many out-of-town places who cannot find places to park.

Shanholtzer said his hotel cannot get tourist trade without parking facilities and said the hotel cannot stay in business unless facilities are provided.

Rep. Hyde Cites Vast Resources Of W. Maryland

Urges Promotion Of Recreation

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde (R. Md.) urged the Deep Creek Property Owners Association "to let the world know of Garrett County's advantages" for the vacationist or the industrialist seeking new plant sites.

Hyde, in talking at the Association meeting Sunday night, said the county's climate and natural beauty, in addition to its low-cost electricity, nearness to natural gas and coal sources, excellent rail and highway connections to the east and west, make it an ideal location for both the tourist and new industry.

The Maryland Congressman noted that Garrett county is one of 50 US counties specially selected for experimental work in rural development. Recent surveys have spotlighted the county's assets both for attracting new industry and the prospects for self-development of industrial projects. He also said, "Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties can very well become a tourist's haven in summer and winter." He urged the counties to capitalize on their natural beauty and to publicize their attractiveness.

The remarks were made during the course of a speech in which Hyde pointed out that the future of Western Maryland depends on the development of sound conservation policies. He called for "picking up the goal" of Theodore Roosevelt and Clifford Pinchot, which was "conservation through wise use."

"The real aim of conservation," he said, "is to balance between man's use of his natural capital and the constant replenishment of that capital." He pointed to the cooperative efforts of local residents and soil conservation officials in working out land and water saving programs under the federal government's soil and watershed programs.

Hyde noted that "dirty rivers" are a hindrance to community programs and well being. He called on his listeners to support pollution abatement programs. He said he hoped to meet governors of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and one of the commissioners from the District of Columbia next month at the conference of governors in White Sulphur Springs to work out plans for granting real authority to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac to implement pollution control measures.

Receipts Are Down

KEYSER — Receipts from Keyser's parking meters on its streets amounted to $322.37, during the week ending last Saturday, according to Carl F. Theis, Jr., city clerk. For the previous week the receipts amounted to $326.77, he added.

Frostburg Taxes Are 84 Per Cent Paid This Year

FROSTBURG—According to J. Harry Hanson, city tax collector, 84 per cent of the real estate and personal property taxes for the city have been paid for the current year. Hanson states, however, there are a number of taxpayers who have not yet taken advantage of the discount period, which will end on Sept. 1.

A total of $1,000 in taxes for the fiscal year of 1954 still remains unpaid, said Hanson, and slightly over $3,000 for the year of 1955 is still outstanding.

Keyser Guard Unit Is Ready For Active Duty

KEYSER—At a recent meeting of the non-commissioned officers of Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion in Keyser, Capt. Henry Wilt, commander, informed the unit leaders it is now a "ready reserve" component of the National Guard.

The general mission of Battery C, is to provide an efficient firing battery of self-propelled howitzers as part of the battalion.

The specific mission of the Keyser National Guard unit, Wilt said, is:

(1) To maintain the organization and its equipment in a state of readiness at all time for employment at time of emergency or internal order.

(2) To attain and maintain 100 percent strength of five officers and 101 enlisted men.

(3) To increase public relations and maintain it at all time.

(4) To become an important and valued organization in the community; to participate in community activities, and gain the respect of its citizens.

Capt. Wilt said that he, as commander of the Keyser National Guard, as well as the members of the guard had a responsibility to see that Battery C reaches and maintains full authorized strength, adding that the present strength is 78 men for the unit.

Theme Booth At Fair

This scene was among the 23 theme booths which were set up last week at the Cumberland Fair. It was sponsored by the Mapleside Homemakers Club, and was based on an old Indian legend. Although it was not one of the prize winners, it caught the eye of many of the thousands who attended the Fair.

Editorial Lashes Endless Squabbles Among Politicos

Cites Recent Garrett Fight

The Oakland Republican, a weekly newspaper published every Thursday, in an editorial has stated that: "The people of Garrett County are entitled to more than the humiliating spectacle of elected and appointed officials making headlines by constant argument, dissension, personal prejudice, stubbornness and finally common brawling."

"The latest sorrowful example," the editorial continued, "was the arrest of this county's state senator, charged with assault upon the person of the county engineer (William Webb DeWitt)."

"Actions of this sort not only lower the standing of the county in the eyes of the rest of the state, but also point up the tragic lack of cooperation among our public officials—which is so important to our present well-being and our future welfare."

The editorial then went on to list some of the disturbances of which it is critical. The paper said the main trouble was the failure of various boards and commissions to work together in the public interest.

In recent issues the Oakland newspaper has been critical of State Senator Clifford Friend, who is charged with assaulting DeWitt. The senator has retorted with several paid advertisements in which he gives his position in the matter.

Sen. Friend has taken issue with construction of a road in the Deep Creek Lake section, which he claims is being done to "favor a few individuals who own property in that area." The newspaper retorted that opening up the road will add thousands of dollars of assessable property to the county tax books.

Main Revenue Source

The paper pointed out that the Garrett County assessable basis is $30 million dollars and of this amount $4,500,000 is on the approximately 1,500 cottages and summer homes around the lake. The Penn Electric's assessment is about $3 million. The electric firm owns Deep Creek Lake. The paper said that on this basis the Deep Creek Lake section brings in taxes on a $7,500,000 assessment, or about one-fourth of the entire county income.

It was also pointed out by the newspaper that the people who own lake properties do not need the use of snow plows in the winter to keep roads open, do not take advantage of the school program as they are summer vacationers.

No Voting Machines
Sen. Friend, in a letter to the paper, states that in other counties the commissioners require the owners of developments to grade and build their own roads to specifications and then the county takes them over and maintains them. The senator said that the residents of Garrett County must drive over dirt roads as a result of the commissioners "squandering roads money on projects which will benefit land speculators."

The newspaper did not spell out its entire criticism of the county commissioners and the Board of Election Supervisors, but Garrett is the only county in Maryland which has not yet purchased voting machines due to a stalemate between the two boards on which one of two types of machines should be selected.

Theme Booth At Fair

This scene was among the 23 theme booths which were set up last week at the Cumberland Fair. It was sponsored by the Mapleside Homemakers Club, and was based on an old Indian legend. Although it was not one of the prize winners, it caught the eye of many of the thousands who attended the Fair.

Editorial Lashes Endless Squabbles Among Politicos

Cites Recent Garrett Fight

The Oakland Republican, a weekly newspaper published every Thursday, in an editorial has stated that: "The people of Garrett County are entitled to more than the humiliating spectacle of elected and appointed officials making headlines by constant argument, dissension, personal prejudice, stubbornness and finally common brawling."

"The latest sorrowful example," the editorial continued, "was the arrest of this county's state senator, charged with assault upon the person of the county engineer (William Webb DeWitt)."

"Actions of this sort not only lower the standing of the county in the eyes of the rest of the state, but also point up the tragic lack of cooperation among our public officials—which is so important to our present well-being and our future welfare."

The editorial then went on to list some of the disturbances of which it is critical. The paper said the main trouble was the failure of various boards and commissions to work together in the public interest.

In recent issues the Oakland newspaper has been critical of State Senator Clifford Friend, who is charged with assaulting DeWitt. The senator has retorted with several paid advertisements in which he gives his position in the matter.

Sen. Friend has taken issue with construction of a road in the Deep Creek Lake section, which he claims is being done to "favor a few individuals who own property in that area." The newspaper retorted that opening up the road will add thousands of dollars of assessable property to the county tax books.

The paper pointed out that the Garrett County assessable basis is $30 million dollars and of this amount $4,500,000 is on the approximately 1,500 cottages and summer homes around the lake. The Penn Electric's assessment is about $5 million. The electric firm owns Deep Creek Lake. The paper said that on this basis the Deep Creek Lake section brings in taxes on a $7,300,000 assessment, or about one fourth of the entire county income.

It was also pointed out by the newspaper that the people who own lake properties do not need the use of snow plows in the winter to keep roads open, do not take advantage of the school program as they are summer vacationers.

Sen. Friend, in a letter to the paper, states that in other counties the commissioners require the owners of developments to grade and build their own roads to specifications.

Miss Jerry Loretta Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bean, Lockeford, Calif., became the bride of A 1-c Glenn O'Rourke, son of Mrs. Eleanor O'Rourke, 87 Armstrong Street, Frostburg, and the late John O'Rourke, Saturday.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in Lockeford Grace Church at 3 p. m., with Rev. A. M. Bahnsen officiating.

Mrs. O'Rourke is a student at Lodi High School and is a member of Theta Rho Girls Club. She and her parents moved to Lockeford about a year ago from Oregon, where she was graduated from Leslie Junior High School in Salem.

Mr. O'Rourke received his education in Frostburg schools and has served five years in the Air Force. Recently he enlisted for an additional five-year tour of duty, with plans to make the Air Force his career. He is stationed at Travis Air Force Base.

The Adelphia Class of First Christian Church will meet at Celanese Pool at 7 tonight. A hamburger fry will be followed by a business session. In case of rain the meeting will be at the church.

Victory Santha 30, Nomads of Avrudakah, will meet at 8 tonight at Junior Order Hall.

Hearings Slated On Three Street Improvement Jobs

Notices of city intent to curb, gutter and pave three more streets between Frederick and Bedford streets were approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Involved are Schlund, Dryer and Welch avenues. Hearings on the proposed ordinances are scheduled September 17 at 10 a. m. before the council.

This brings to 10 the number of streets under the improvement program, an offshoot of the Frederick Street improvement project. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said three more ordinances remain to be introduced.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum submitted a report on cost of paving Parkview Avenue from its intersection with Reservoir Avenue to its easterly terminus and said overall cost is $3,809.64. Of this, the city will pay $1,980.25 for certain roads in Constitution Park and an intersection, while residents will pay $1,829.39. Per lineal foot is $1.6639.

Mrs. Ralph Lueck, 307 Bellevue Heights, asked council about an original agreement when land was sold to the city under which the city agreed to stand cost of any future improvement.

Buchholtz said the original agreement would be checked. On other matters: Council accepted the resignation of Clifton J. Cook as a pipe man in the Fire Department effective August 31.

Authorized was payment of $6,675 to Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer, as 18th payment for supervision and inspection of the sewage treatment plant.

A petition signed by 100 was presented by Mrs. Thomas Buser, 504 Eastern Avenue, in which petitioners opposed addition of fluorine to the city water supply. A single postcard, also opposing fluorine, was acknowledged and filed.

Parking meter inspector Harry Whisner said collections the week of August 12 were $704 compared to $707.30 the week of August 19, an increase of $3.30.

Approved was a proclamation naming September as "MS (muscular dystrophy) Month."

Locust Grove Bridge Delayed

The Locust Grove bridge project which consists mainly of laying a new steel deck, will be delayed until the last week in September, according to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

Chapman said it had been hoped to start this week, but the steel strike resulted in a delay in receiving material by the contractor, Conn Welding and Machine Company of New Castle, Pa.

Officials of the firm said they expected to receive the deck material about the third week in September and begin work soon after.

The project is also being delayed due to construction of a new State Roads Commission bridge across Braddock Run to carry traffic on State Route 36. The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company of this city has this contract.

The Locust Grove project is costing $14,540.

Local Man Fined On Motor Charge

A 37-year-old local man was convicted for the second time of driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court and fined $200 and costs.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason found the man, John R. Kelly Jr., of 727 Maryland Avenue, guilty of driving under the influence and reckless driving. He was fined $10 and costs on the reckless driving count.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan took an appeal following the hearing. James S. Getty, assistant state's attorney, presented the case for the state.

The man was apprehended on August 1 by Officer Clarence Valentine after he ran through a red light at the intersection of George and Baltimore streets.

School Bid Deadline Extended To Sept. 7

The deadline for receiving bids for construction of the Northeast Elementary School in Bowman's Addition has been extended to Friday, September 7 at 2 p. m., according to Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Wednesday, August 29, had been the earlier deadline.

Finan Says City Cannot Regulate Value Of Homes

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said yesterday he does not believe a municipal authority can regulate the value of homes in any neighborhood or residentially zoned area.

Finan had been asked to investigate the possibility of amending present ordinance of the city to protect taxpayers who have invested a substantial amount of money in property in a residential area.

The request was a result of a protest filed before the Mayor and Council last week by residents of the Winfield Road-Williams Street section over the location of an "undesirable" structure moved into the 600 block of Williams Street.

Later in the week, fire of undetermined origin gutted the interior of the protested structure which is owned by August Robey. An investigation is continuing into the cause. Robey had planned to make $3,000 improvements in the building, it was said.

Finan said in his opinion that when any real estate subdivision is laid out for development, the people who subdivide the area can legally place covenants in the deeds of purchasers of lots specifying that any dwelling must not cost less than a minimum figure.

He said there are a number of such subdivisions in the city and added this, obviously, is the best way to insure a standard of values with regard to keeping a neighborhood at a certain level.

However, he added, these covenants are placed in deeds as a result of a private development and not by virtue of any municipal or public authority.

In giving his opinion that the city cannot regulate value of homes, Finan cited a recent case in New Jersey in which the court held that "no person under the zoning power can legally be deprived of his right to build a house on his land because the cost of that house is less than the cost of his neighbor's house."

The city attorney added the only features which local zoning ordinance allow to regulate "are the use and occupancy features of a property, as well as the requirement for front, side and rear yards."

Finan referred to the Williams Street case thus: "I might add in the recent case that the main objector being Mr. Charles McDade, that a check of our engineer's office revealed that when Mr. McDade built his home on Williams Street he failed to secure a building permit. He secured such a permit this week, (last week), although of course, the home has been constructed and occupied for many months. Also, this particular section of Williams Street is actually zoned for business and not residential."

Finan said that in order to give some protection where houses are moved from one place to another, "I feel that we should amend the zoning ordinance to provide that when a house is removed from one location to another, that it be checked to ascertain that it will be in keeping with other homes in the area to which it is to be moved; however, we cannot place any specific valuation as to how much improvements should be placed in the home but merely allow the particular dwelling or building to be moved from its location or not to be moved."

Finan said with this in mind, he would consult with the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Storm Warning System Better

As the hurricane season unfolds and with it the first storms of 1956 already history, the U. S. Weather Bureau once again battens down the hatches in its annual fight with the worst fury that nature has to offer. This year the Weather Bureau hopes it will be able to give sufficient warning to prevent the wholesale slaughter and destruction in coastal areas that has characterized hurricane seasons in recent years.

Because of intensive efforts by the bureau and other governmental agencies to unravel the secrets and understand the erratic behavior of hurricanes, the country is better prepared, technically, than ever before. However, the necessary material weapons needed to win this perennial battle are lacking.

Radar has become one of the most potent weapons in man's struggle with nature with its ability to sight an approaching storm miles away and keep its ever changing course in its eye until the storm has left the area. But radar is expensive, and the few sets the Weather Bureau has been able to purchase provide only a spotty glimpse of the storm picture.

A contract for 39 of these weather radar sets has been completed by the government, but it is estimated they cannot be put into operation until 1958. For the present, the weather watchers must be content with 10 modified military radar sets, each with a range of only 150 miles. The bureau is thus handicapped much the same way a military unit would be if one rifle were issued to each ten men.

Man's understanding of nature and her quirks has progressed somewhat in recent years, but his control of her is too far in the future to be contemplated, if indeed it ever become a reality. The only defense, therefore, is an adequate warning system which can buy the time needed to prepare for the onslaught.

The Weather Bureau is that warning system, and undoubtedly many Americans owe their lives to the timely information gathered and broadcast by the weatherman.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

While both conventions were stimulating excitement and interest, John Foster Dulles was in London negotiating to prevent World War III from exploding. If this country was ever on the brink of another war, it was over the Suez Canal issue and our responsibilities to the nations that compose NATO. If the British and French chose to defend themselves at Cairo, the United States could not have remained outside the battle.

Nasser raises as severe a test as Hitler did, because experience with Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin has served as an index to the characteristics of dictators and the dangers involved in any commerce with them and Nasser pursues their pattern at the wrong time and in the wrong place. Yet, as a practical matter, there is no way of avoiding dealing with men of this type if they are in possession of territory and in control of people. Even when we refuse to recognize an outlaw government such as Red China, we are forced by circumstances to have transactions with it, as we have been negotiating with Red China at Geneva for more than a year, ostensibly over the lease of American prisoners of war in that country, but pragmatically as a means of direct contact.

So it must be with Nasser. He is in control of Egypt and he has seized the Suez Canal Company and such an act could bring on a war, because Nasser has the support of the Soviet Union State as well as India. The question was either to find a formula for peace or to fight. No one could possibly tell where such a war would lead to; on the other hand, if Nasser got away with seizing property to which he did not hold the deed, who could tell how far this precedent would go in the Arabian world?

Dulles' proposal for a world control of the canal has generally proved to be acceptable to most nations at the London conference. Of course, Nasser will have to agree to whatever conclusion is reached or nothing has been accomplished. On the other hand, if Soviet Russia accepts the American proposal, it would be impossible for Nasser to take an adamant position, although desperate politicians have before this clung to power at any cost. Nasser's program for the development of an Arab universal state led by Egypt depends entirely upon Soviet acquiescence. Nasser's present display of strength is based upon his alliance with Soviet Russia, an alliance, an understanding, an agreement, whatever it may be, which provides Egypt with modern arms and technical assistance while at the same time absorbing important quantities of Egyptian cotton. Were it not for this arrangement, whatever it may be, Nasser could not have adopted so recalcitrant an attitude toward the West nor would he have dared arouse the Arab world to the destruction of Israel.

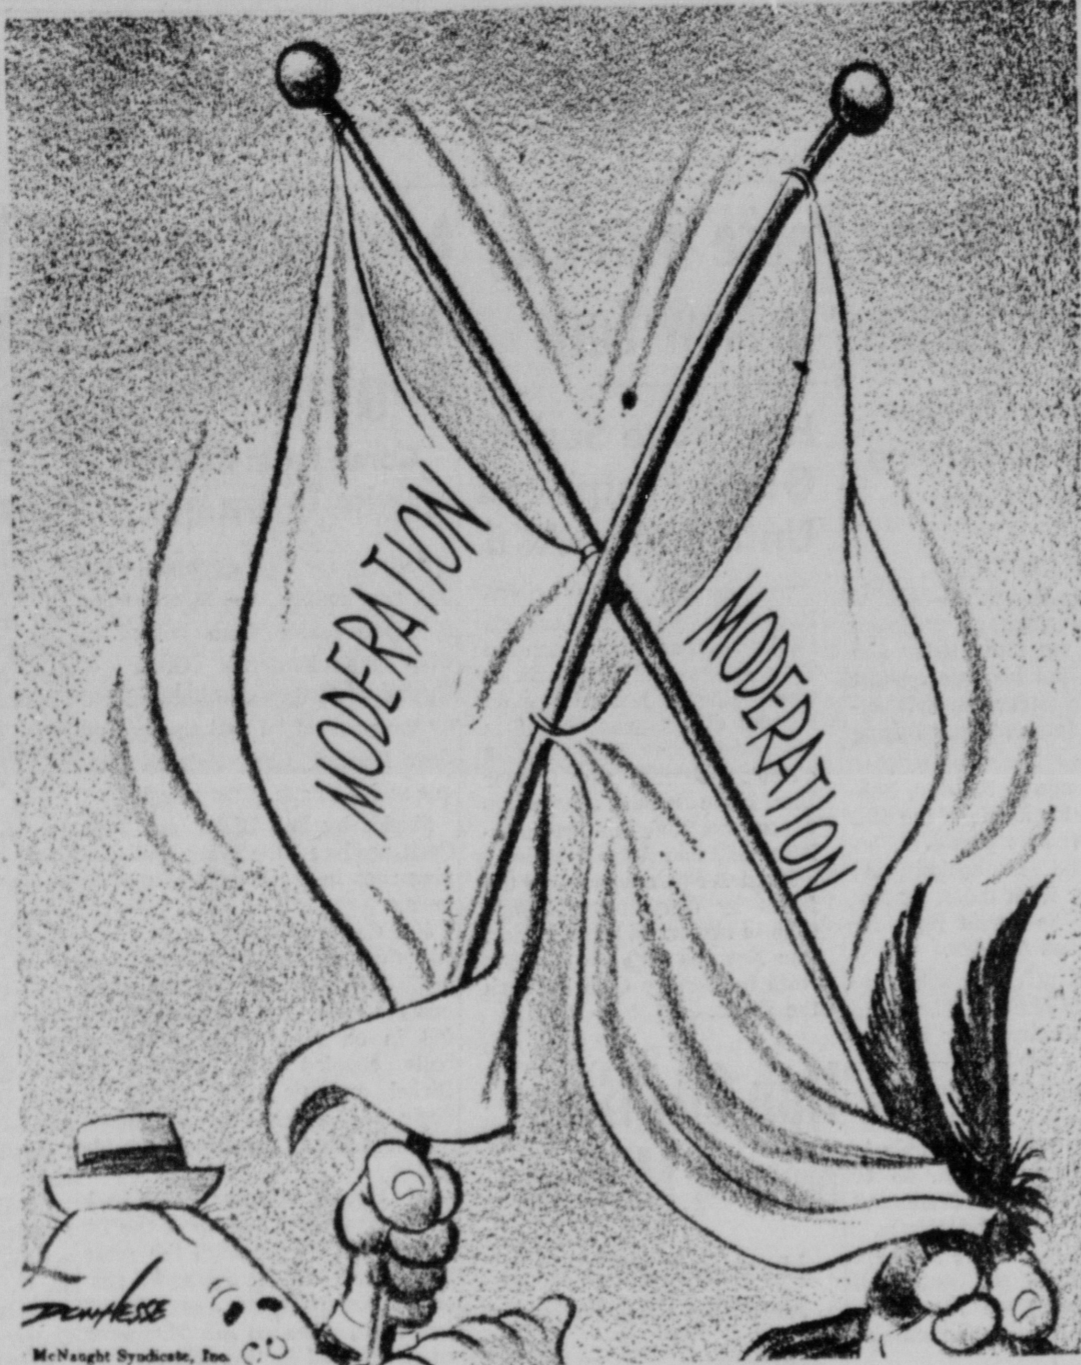

At any rate, if Dulles can win Shepilov and his supporters to a peaceful solution, Nasser will have to accept the London formula for the management of the Suez Canal with whatever face-saving device can be worked out, and there will be no war over the issue. The effort is, of course, worth while because as much as war is unthinkable, it could take place over such incidents as the seizure of the Suez Canal Company.

The difficulty with a character like Nasser is that he is not too well understood by those who must do business with him. He is new. He is crass. He is bumptious. He is popular with his own people. He has won a wide acceptance in the Arab world. It is impossible to ignore Nasser; it is equally difficult to know how to do business with him. Like all dictators, he makes his own rules and changes them in the middle of the game.

But he is there. He has power. He can use that power destructively. He has already brought the world to the brink of war. He might succeed in making war. The necessity then is to find a formula acceptable to Nasser, to Russia, to India and the West. It has been a stupendous and challenging task and if John Foster Dulles succeeds in establishing such a formula, he is deserving of applause by his countrymen. The people of the United States do not want war; they are very tired of being humiliated.

Tangled Banners For The Big Parade

Republican Convention Reflected Unity Of Party

By David Lawrence

ENROUTE FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO WASHINGTON — There was a big story at the Republican National Convention that seems to have been missed by many observers. It wasn't visible to the naked eye like parades and artificially stimulated demonstrations. But it was plainly revealed if one took the time to talk with representative leaders and delegates from various states who only four years ago were scowling at each other in the Taft-Eisenhower battle. For today there is effective unity such as a major party rarely enjoys.

"Tom Dewey," said a former Taft leader of national prominence, "made the finest political speech of the convention—and he looked like a new Dewey. If he had made such fighting speeches in 1948, we never would have had Truman a second time."

Conservative leaders and delegates from states that had supported Taft all made similar remarks and so did those from Dewey's side, hitherto regarded as the "liberal" wing of the party.

GOP No Longer Divided
There were, of course, other evidences of unity that were unmistakable in the comments about the platform adopted. The Republicans, to be sure, cannot be described any longer as a "divided party." The Democrats have become the truly "divided party" now.

When a party is out of power a long time it usually splits into factions, and doesn't become an effective instrument of political action until its candidate wins the White House. The solidarity evident now in the Republican ranks resembles the unity achieved by the Democrats in 1932 after FDR's first term. Usually it is the influence and record of the President which brings this about. It has been due this time to the solid demonstration by President Eisenhower of what he himself calls a "dynamic conservatism" which happens to be closer to the American mood of today than any other brand of political philosophy.

The conservatives, for the most part, feel nowadays that on the things that really matter to them—the maintenance of a sound economy with a sound money system and a restraint on extravagant spending and borrowing—the President has manifested a sincere dedication to historic Republican principles. As for the things that are called "liberal" in the social welfare line, there are some differences naturally as to the wisdom of all the proposals offered. But the significant thing is that among conservatives now there is a wise tolerance—a tendency to adopt a wait-and-see attitude and let the experiments be tested without making the sort of protest that could split the party wide open. Perhaps the best reassurance which could have been given the conservatives on this point was conveyed to them by the President in his acceptance speech when he said: "Change with principle is progress but constant change without principle becomes chaos."

Real Difference Expressed
In that short sentence is expressed the essential difference between stumbling radicalism and steady conservatism. The radical is inclined to embrace any so-called "liberal" proposal as he would a new fad without thinking the plan through to determine whether, despite its lure as a vote-getting device, it stands the test of soundness and practicality or whether it threatens to upset, if not destroy, the economic structure itself.

To see a united Republican party after many years of sharp division is a remarkable development and is worthy of analysis even though it didn't command as much attention last week as the humorous attempt of a Nebraska delegate to nominate the mythical character, Joe Smith, for vice president. But perhaps this did demonstrate the serious fact that any real person could have had his name offered for president or vice president if sponsored only by a single delegate.

About Blood Banks And Their Clearing Houses

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Chicago salesman was driving through central Florida when his peptic ulcer began to bleed. He was hospitalized and received five transfusions before hemorrhage was brought under control. The man recovered but almost had a relapse when he received the bill. The cost of the blood bothered him most, until he learned how to get a rebate.

This is how it was done: The local blood bank in Florida is a member of the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB) and was able to borrow several pints from member organizations throughout the state. This was done by contacting their regional clearing house, where a record of available blood is kept.

Without the help of these organizations it is doubtful whether the blood could have been obtained in time, since the patient has a rare type. In the past, a search had to be made for donors with the right type for a particular emergency. In addition to the time element it is almost impossible to get volunteers to act as donors for strangers.

But this is only half the story. The AABB operates five district clearing houses throughout the country. This means that replacement of the blood used in Florida could be made in any part of the United States. The salesman in this story requested his wife in Chicago and his brother in Texas to ask mutual friends to contribute to their local banks. These donations were credited to his Florida account and ultimately he received a refund on his bill.

The district agency cooperates with blood banks, physicians, and hospitals to provide transfusions for patients efficiently and economically. In this respect, they make the blood available to local banks when and where it is needed on a nationwide scale. All this goes through a district agency that operates in a manner similar to a bank clearing house.

The clearing house does not bleed donors, process blood, or distribute it to patients. It is organized to handle the exchange of blood between banks by issuing I O U's and other paper credits. When the day of reckoning comes, the agency balances its assets and liabilities.

If Bank A, for example, owes the clearing house five pints and the clearing house owes the same to bank B, the account is paid in full when A sends this amount of blood to B. Other accounts are

Try And Stop Me!

The sales manager of a large publishing house obviously was in a snit. "What's this I hear," he thundered to the trembling underling "about you going over my head?"

"Honest, Mr. Miller," insisted the culprit, "all I did was pray for a raise."

Later he told the appeased sales manager, "Being a salesman is sure the life for me! How I love being at a different motel every night and meeting the swell folks there. The only part I can't stand is calling on those beastly buyers."

A Persian legend tells of a traveler who strayed from his caravan and was lost in a trackless wilderness of sand. Two days of aimless plodding left him exhausted and about to perish from thirst.

Texas Determined To Block Estes; Californians Almost Riot On Floor

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The Texas delegation was holding its secret caucus between the first and second ballot during that thrills-packed, seasaw race to nominate the Democratic vice president. Pat Wiggins, alert United Press reporter, had smuggled her way inside.

Gerald C. Mann of Dallas spoke up for Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts. There were boos. Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana spoke up for Kefauver. "We can't sell Kennedy in Texas," he said. There was some favorable reaction. Sam Rayburn was called on. "We've got a choice of two men—Kennedy and Kefauver," he said, "and I'm for Kennedy."

This clinched it. Johnson backed Kennedy. In two minutes the boos were changed to unanimous approval. Rayburn and Johnson had spoken.

Kennedy had almost unseated Lyndon Johnson as Democratic leader of the Senate by knifing his fellow Democrat, Congressman Foster Furcolo, when Furcolo ran against GOP Senator Saltonstall in Massachusetts. As a result, Saltonstall won, and Johnson clung to his leadership by a narrow one-vote margin.

Old guard hatred of Kefauver is intense, however, and Johnson was out to block him.

Chicago Goes To Kennedy
On the second ballot, votes began to pile up for Kennedy. Some took their cue from Stevenson's own Illinois delegation which threw 46 votes to Kennedy. This was interpreted as meaning private Stevenson support for Kennedy.

Chicago boss Jake Arvey had told Kefauver leaders that he was for "The Keef," but Arvey switched to Mayor Wagner of New York in deference to Tammany boss De Sapo. Charming Irish Mayor Richard J. Daley swung most of Illinois to Kennedy. Bill Connors, boss of Chicago's 42nd Ward and Stevenson's alternate in the Illinois delegation, also voted for Kennedy.

The bandwagon rush for the young senator from Massachusetts was on.

In the Stock Yards Inn, Kennedy, still in undershorts, lay on his bed and watched his vote pile up. He had planned to take a bath. The water was still running.

New Jersey is switching from Wagner to Kennedy," phoned Rep. Thorbert MacDonald of Massachusetts. It did. The bandwagon continued.

Kefauver Huddles

In a nearby room in the Stock Yards Inn, Jiggs Donohue urged Kefauver to talk to Minnesota's Senator Humphrey, persuade him to pull out of the race. Humphrey was operating from a room off the convention hall, and Estes was reluctant to enter the hall. He recalled the commotion he created when he entered the hall in 1952.

Finally Donohue had his way. Kefauver sneaked into the convention building, half hiding his face, and went up to Humphrey's office.

During most of the second ballot the two rivals sat together watching the scoreboard. Repeatedly, Kefauver and Donohue urged Humphrey to throw in the towel. He was losing delegates on every vote. But though Kefauver had given him all the Minnesota votes on the first ballot, Humphrey kept hoping for a political miracle. He hung on.

Out on the convention floor there was bedlam. California passed. Earlier that day California had caucused. Result: Kefauver 33, Humphrey 23½, Kennedy 10½, Pat Brown 1. After the first ballot, Delegation Chairman Brown tried to caucus on the floor. The confusion was terrific.

Jim Farley Pleads

Bill Malone, boss of San Francisco, kept demanding that the delegation switch to Kennedy.

Congressman Jack Shelly, member of the Teamsters Union, asked to make a speech to California delegates right on the floor. He did so—above the roar of the convention.

"Here's a chance to make a vice president," he pleaded. Jim Farley came over from the New York delegation. "Come on boys, you've got a chance to elect a vice president," he urged.

Congressman John McCormack of Boston leaped over the California delegates and pleaded, too. He and young Kennedy have been rivals for political control of Boston. But he begged California to vote for the man he has opposed.

Ben Swig, owner of San Francisco's swank Fairmont Hotel, demanded Kennedy, kept demanding and demanding. Jack Shelly began shaking his fist.

"Now's our chance," he yelled. "Let's make it unanimous for Kennedy."

California Waits

Kefauver supporters almost knocked Pat Brown down. Jimmy Roosevelt, George Killian, Congressman Clair Engle moved in close, surrounded him, made sure he didn't announce a unanimous vote for Kennedy before the ballots were counted.

Dan Kimball, former secretary of the Navy, switched to Kennedy. "Let's go boys," yelled Shelly. "What are we waiting for?"

"Wait and see what Tennessee is going to do," cautioned Jimmy Roosevelt, as he guarded the microphone. "Tennessee may change the whole convention."

Killian and Roosevelt prepared to announce a big majority for Kefauver.

"If you do that, I'll challenge the vote," warned Dore Schary, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Finally Pat Brown got on a chair, yelled at Speaker Rayburn, waved the California standard, couldn't get recognition.

State after state had now thrown in for Kennedy. He was ahead of Kefauver, within touching distance of the magic number 68½ that it takes to win.

Senator turned off the water in the bathroom of the Stock Yards Inn. The tub was about to run over. He decided not to take a bath after all.

The inside story of the thrill-packed last day of the Chicago Convention will be concluded tomorrow.

No Marilyn Monroe

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO.

One thing the Republican Convention which has just ended here has proved beyond dispute: The best professional techniques of the admen and the electronics experts are no substitute for the unique, peculiar, and traditional American political processes.

For weeks before the convention opened, there was a great deal of talk about how the Republican Convention this year was to be something entirely new, a clean break with tradition. This year, the convention was not to be the usual messy and unpredictable chaos. It was to be, instead, a production, a show, professionally staged, and designed, like any major television production, to beguile, and persuade the millions at their television sets. There was to be an absolute minimum of the traditional cliché-ridden political oratory. There was to be an absolute maximum of pretty girls, pageants, performances, and general electronic hoop-la.

No Novak, Either

To hear the Republican impresarios talk, you would have thought that the politicians were to be almost entirely shunted aside in favor of, say, Mrs. Marilyn Monroe Miller, or Miss Kim Novak, or other proven attractions. In the event, instead of Marilyn Monroe, the televisioners got Mrs. Elphie Sjuln of Iowa, mother of nine and grandmother of 25.

Mrs. Sjuln spoke, and very nicely too, for exactly 90 seconds, on the subject of "morality." She was one of 15 ladies who appeared on something called "The Women Speak," which was typical of the kind of "production" the Republican impresarios talked about so confidently.

Each of the 15 ladies (one for each letter of the words "Republican Party") was accompanied by a young girl bearing a placard spelling out the chosen subject. The girls were pretty, but only fairly pretty, because they were volunteers, not professionals.

Some of the ladies spoke their pieces very well. But they were, for the most part, exactly like lady orators at any convention, with their iron curls, their sometimes quavering fervor, their impressive corsages, and their habit of bobbing their heads as if admonishing naughty children.

The harsh fact is that "The Women Speak," and the other productions dreamed up by the impresarios, were something less than electrifying, and a far cry from Marilyn Monroe. And the further harsh fact is that politics and the professional techniques of the advertising, entertainment, and television industries do not really mix very well.

Different Breed

They do not mix well because the main participants at any political occasion are not entertainers but politicians, which is a very different breed of cat. George Murphy, the Hollywood actor who rather frantically directed the convention proceedings, acknowledged as much in a chat with one of these reporters.

Some day, he said, conventions would be run as they ought to be, in a proper theater, with proper direction and control. Meanwhile, he said, he would be happy to settle for an automatic trap door to get rid of the politicians who insisted on speaking too long. Even without his trap door, Murphy and the other able professionals from the communications industry, did succeed in making the convention run more smoothly than usual. But the fact remains that the convention was a tooth-aching bore, at least until the final climactic moment of the President's acceptance speech.

It was a tooth-aching bore partly because the outcome was fore-ordained, and there was none of the conflict and suspense which lend to the American political convention its peculiar fascination. But it was a bore also, in part, just because it was too smoothly run, and lacked the unpredictable messiness which also lends flavor to a convention.

No Adequate Substitute

All this suggests a lesson which the Republican high command might well ponder. Even before the President's illness, the word was passed at Republican headquarters that the campaign to follow the new kind of convention would also be a new kind of campaign. Instead of the usual frantic beating of the bushes for voters, the strategy would center on the techniques of the communications industry—five-minute spots, saturation campaigns, carefully planned full-length shows, and so on, with the President's role limited to a half dozen or so television appearances.

Obviously, television and the new communications techniques have introduced an important new element into American politics. But the experience of this convention clearly suggests that the new techniques are no adequate substitute for the old. And this in turn suggests that before very long the pressure on the President to take the stump, in the old traditional way, will be very heavy indeed.

Storm Warning System Better

As the hurricane season unfolds and with it the first storms of 1956 already history, the U. S. Weather Bureau once again battens down the hatches in its annual fight with the worst fury that nature has to offer. This year the Weather Bureau hopes it will be able to give sufficient warning to prevent the wholesale slaughter and destruction in coastal areas that has characterized hurricane seasons in recent years.

Perhaps the best reassurance which could have been given the conservatives on this point was conveyed to them by the President in his acceptance speech when he said: "Change with principle is progress but constant change without principle becomes chaos."

Real Difference Expressed
In that short sentence is expressed the essential difference between stumbling radicalism and steady conservatism. The radical is inclined to embrace any so-called "liberal" proposal as he would a new fad without thinking the plan through to determine whether, despite its lure as a vote-getting device, it stands the test of soundness and practicality or whether it threatens to upset, if not destroy, the economic structure itself.

To see a united Republican party after many years of sharp division is a remarkable development and is worthy of analysis even though it didn't command as much attention last week as the humorous attempt of a Nebraska delegate to nominate the mythical character, Joe Smith, for vice president. But perhaps this did demonstrate the serious fact that any real person could have had his name offered for president or vice president if sponsored only by a single delegate.

The unanimous support given Vice President Nixon was not surprising to those who have followed party politics in America. A party in power doesn't choose its candidates at the last minute. Months in advance of the convention the party leaders arrive at a consensus. Stassen's mistake was that for some reason of his own he thought such a unanimity could be upset at the convention itself. He now regrets his miscalculation.

In a broad sense the renomination of Nixon was in itself striking proof of the harmony inside the Republican party. The conservatives had rallied to his support early this year when the first signs of a "dump Nixon" movement were noted. Because of the nature of the attack—the distortions of Nixon's 1954 speeches by the Democrats—Republicans of both the Taft and Dewey groups were more insistent that he be chosen than was apparent on the surface in recent months.

Not Much Different
The two conventions were not much different from those of other years. The convention system is still a cumbersome, unrepresentative convalescence which is wholly without sanction of federal law. The Democrats made more noise this time and supplied the basis for more colorful stories in the newspapers but the Republican convention was a splendid example of dignity, forbearance and conspicuous avoidance of partisan attacks by the two candidates. The contrast between the parts played by the two ex-presidents was self evident. Harry Truman came out a political casualty of diminished influence while Herbert Hoover emerged a heroic figure.

From its unspectacular beginning to the singing of "God Bless America" after a moving prayer at the close, as the President of the United States stood reverently with bowed head, the Republican convention caught the mood of the country—a satisfaction with the peace and prosperity achieved thus far and a fervent desire that they be continued. The Democrats now will have to prove that change for change's sake isn't their only issue.

Texas Determined To Block Estes; Californians Almost Riot On Floor

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The Texas delegation was holding its secret caucus between the first and second ballot during that thrill-packed, seessaw race to nominate the Democratic vice president. Pat Wiggins, alert United Press reporter, had smuggled her way inside.

Gerald C. Mann of Dallas spoke up for Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts. There were boos. Rep. Wright Patman of Texas spoke up for Kefauver. "We can't sell Kennedy in Texas," he said. There was some favorable reaction. Sam Rayburn was called on.

"We've got a choice of two men—Kennedy and Kefauver," he said, "and I'm for Kennedy."

This clinched it. Johnson backed Kennedy. In two minutes the boos were changed to unanimous approval. Rayburn and Johnson had spoken.

Kennedy had almost unseated Lyndon Johnson as Democratic leader of the Senate by knifing his fellow Democrat, Congressman Foster Furcolo, when Furcolo ran against GOP Senator Saltonstall in Massachusetts. As a result, Saltonstall won, and Johnson clung to his leadership by a narrow one-vote margin.

Old guard hatred of Kefauver is intense, however, and Johnson was out to block him.

Chicago Goes To Kennedy
On the second ballot, votes began to pile up for Kennedy. Some took their cue from Stevenson's own Illinois delegation which threw 46 votes to Kennedy. This was interpreted as meaning private Stevenson support for Kennedy.

Chicago boss Jake Arvey had told Kefauver leaders that he was for "The Keef," but Arvey switched to Mayor Wagner of New York in deference to Tammany boss De Sapio. Charming Irish Mayor Richard J. Daley swung most of Illinois to Kennedy. Bill Connors, boss of Chicago's 42nd Ward and Stevenson's alternate in the Illinois delegation, also voted for Kennedy.

The handwagon rush for the young senator from Massachusetts was on.

In the Stock Yards Inn, Kennedy, still in undershorts, lay on his bed and watched his vote pile up. He had planned to take a bath. The water was still running.

"New Jersey is switching from Wagner to Kennedy," phoned Rep. Torbert MacDonald of Massachusetts. It did. The handwagon continued.

Kefauver Huddles
In a nearby room in the Stock Yards Inn, Jiggs Donohue urged Kefauver to talk to Minnesota's Senator Humphrey, persuade him to pull out of the race. Humphrey was operating from a room off the convention hall, and Estes was reluctant to enter the hall. He recalled the commotion he created when he entered the hall in 1952.

Finally Donohue had his way. Kefauver sneaked into the convention building, half hiding his face, and went up to Humphrey's office.

During most of the second ballot the two rivals sat together watching the scoreboard. Repeatedly, Kefauver and Donohue urged Humphrey to throw in the towel. He was losing delegates on every vote. But though Kefauver had given him all the Minnesota votes on the first ballot, Humphrey kept hoping for a political miracle. He hung on.

Out on the convention floor there was bedlam. California passed. Earlier that day California had caucused. Result: Kefauver 33, Humphrey 23, Kennedy 10, Pat Brown 1. After the first ballot, Delegation Chairman Brown tried to caucus on the floor. The confusion was terrific.

Jim Farley Pleads
Bill Malone, boss of San Francisco, kept demanding that the delegation switch to Kennedy.

Not Much Different
The two conventions were not much different from those of other years. The convention system is still a cumbersome, unrepresentative convalescence which is wholly without sanction of federal law. The Democrats made more noise this time and supplied the basis for more colorful stories in the newspapers but the Republican convention was a splendid example of dignity, forbearance and conspicuous avoidance of partisan attacks by the two candidates. The contrast between the parts played by the two ex-presidents was self evident. Harry Truman came out a political casualty of diminished influence while Herbert Hoover emerged a heroic figure.

From its unspectacular beginning to the singing of "God Bless America" after a moving prayer at the close, as the President of the United States stood reverently with bowed head, the Republican convention caught the mood of the country—a satisfaction with the peace and prosperity achieved thus far and a fervent desire that they be continued. The Democrats now will have to prove that change for change's sake isn't their only issue.

California boss Jim Farley came over from the New York delegation. "Come on boys, you've got a chance to elect a vice president," he urged.

Congressman John McCormack of Boston leaped over the California delegates and pleaded, too. He and young Kennedy have been rivals for political control of Boston. But he begged California to vote for the man he has opposed.

Ben Swig, owner of San Francisco's swank Fairmont Hotel, demanded Kennedy, kept demanding and demanding. Jack Shelly began shaking his fist.

"Now's our chance," he yelled. "Let's make it unanimous for Kennedy."

Kefauver supporters almost knocked Pat Brown down. Jimmy Roosevelt, George Killian, Congressman Clair Engle moved in close, surrounded him, made sure he didn't announce a unanimous vote for Kennedy before the ballots were counted.

Dan Kimball, former secretary of the Navy, switched to Kennedy. "Let's go boys," yelled Shelly. "What are we waiting for?"

"Wait and see what Tennessee is going to do," cautioned Jimmy Roosevelt, as he guarded the microphone. "Tennessee may change the whole convention."

Killian and Roosevelt prepared to announce a big majority for Kefauver.

"If you do that, I'll challenge the vote," warned Doc Schary, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Finally Pat Brown got on a chair, yelled at Speaker Rayburn, waved the California standard, couldn't get recognition.

State after state had now thrown in for Kennedy. He was ahead of Kefauver, within touching distance of the magic number 686½ that it takes to win.

Senator turned off the water in the bathroom of the Stock Yards Inn. The tub was about to run over. He decided not to take a bath after all.

The inside story of the thrill-packed last day of the Chicago Convention will be concluded tomorrow.

No Marilyn Monroe
By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

the advertising, entertainment, and television industries do not really mix very well.

Different Breed
They do not mix well because the main participants at any political occasion are not entertainers but politicians, which is a very different breed of cat. George Murphy, the Hollywood actor who rather frantically directed the convention proceedings, acknowledged as much in a chat with one of these reporters.

Some day, he said, conventions would be run as they ought to be run, in a proper theater, with proper direction and control. Meanwhile, he said, he would be happy to settle for an automatic trap door to get rid of the politicians who insisted on speaking too long.

Even without his trap door, Murphy and the other able professionals from the communications industry, did succeed in making the convention run more smoothly than usual. But the fact remains that the convention was a tooth-aching bore, at least until the final climactic moment of the President's acceptance speech.

It was a tooth-aching bore partly because the outcome was fore-ordained, and there was none of the conflict and suspense which lend to the American political convention its peculiar fascination. But it was a bore also, in part, just because it was too smoothly run, and lacked the unpredictable messiness which also lends flavor to a convention.

No Adequate Substitute
All this suggests a lesson which the Republican high command might well ponder. Even before the President's illnesses, the word was passed at Republican headquarters that the campaign to follow the new kind of convention would also be a new kind of campaign. Instead of the usual frantic beating of the bushes for voters, the strategy would center on the techniques of the communications industry—five-minute spots, saturation campaigns, carefully planned full-length shows, and so on, with the President's role limited to a half dozen or so television appearances.

Obviously, television and the new communications techniques have introduced an important new element into American politics. But the experience of this convention clearly suggests that the new techniques are no adequate substitute for the old. And this in turn suggests that before very long the pressure on the President to take the stump, in the old traditional way, will be very heavy indeed.

Cleveland Wins, 5-2 Slaves Yankees' Lead To Seven Games

Lemon Beats Senators For 17th Triumph

Bags 198th Victory Of Career; Carrasquel Hits Two Home Runs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Chico Carrasquel slammed two home runs and a double and Rocky Colavito smashed his 17th homer tonight as Cleveland defeated Washington 5-2. Bob Lemon won his 17th game of the season and the 198th of his major league career as the second place Indians trimmed the New York Yankees' lead to seven games.

Chico Blasts Pair

Carrasquel hit his first homer off Hal Griggs, the loser, after Jim Hegan walked in the second inning. He added a solo homer in the fifth, while Colavito crashed his homer off Bucky Stewart with none aboard in the sixth inning.

The Indians boosted their lead to 5-0 in the seventh when Carrasquel doubled, took third on Lemon's single and scored when Al Smith forced Lemon.

Washington scored a run in the seventh when Roy Sievers doubled, went to third after Clint Courtney fled out and came across when Jim Lemon grounded out.

Bob Forces In Run

The Senators picked up an unearned run and stirred up a threat in the eighth inning. With one down Lou Berberet batted for Stewart and singled, Ed Yost fled out, but Whitey Herzog was safe on Bobby Avila's fumble and the bases were loaded when Pete Runnels beat out an infield hit. Lemon walked Sievers to force across Camilo Pascual, running for Berberet, but Courtney fled to Gene Woodling in left.

Lemon, who struck out six, allowed eight hits as the Indians swept the two-game series. The Indians collected 11 hits with Bobby Avila injecting three singles.

Luedee Stops Bob Provizzi Fight At St. Nick Stopped In Sixth

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Rugged Jerry Luedee of New Haven, Conn., came from behind tonight to stop pugy Bob Provizzi of Brooklyn in 2:40 of the sixth round in a scheduled 10-round telecast fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

Luedee, a 9-5 favorite, out-weighted his rival 165½ to 160.

Referee Pety Scalo halted the bout after the 24-year-old Connecticut Cloutier twice staggered Provizzi in the sixth. The loser had a nasty cut over his left eye.

The victory earned Luedee a Sept. 17 main event at St. Nick's against Pat McAteer, British Empire middleweight champion. It will be McAteer's U.S. debut.

Luedee, who started slow and trailed after four rounds, opened the deep, wide gash over Provizzi's eye in the fifth round with a solid right. He followed with a left to the jaw to rock Bob from head to toe. In the sixth Luedee gave the ex-gob a severe battering which caused Scalo to intervene.

A crowd of 1,227 paid $2,500. Luedee racked up his 25th triumph for a 25-4-1 record. Provizzi, stopped for the fourth time in his career, now has a 19-8-5 record.

Family Encouraged By Babe's Condition

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 27 (AP)—The husband of the famed cancer-stricken athlete, Babe Dickerson Zaharias, said today "We are very encouraged on her condition today."

"It is much brighter, and we are both hopeful and looking for a better tomorrow," George Zaharias added.

Mrs. Zaharias' immediate family is here, where she is undergoing treatment in John Sealy Hospital.

Zaharias had he had told his family not to come to Galveston immediately, indicating he had sent for them earlier.

FAIRGO MUTUEL MANAGER—Robert C. Littleton, of Hagerstown, has been appointed director of wagering for the third straight year at Fairgo and will be in charge of the pari mutuel department during the 12-day meeting Sept. 12-25. Littleton is now at Hagerstown and goes from there to Timonium. He is the eleventh pari mutuel manager at Fairgo since the first five-day meet in 1925. His predecessors include Mort Mahony, Jimmy Considine, Erle Walden, Dave Heisman, Walter McConnell, Donald Hay, Jimmy Langford, L. Ed O'Hara, Riggs Mahony and Bill Fisher.

Willie Miranda Is Favorite Of Baltimore Fans

Richards Calls Him "Barnum And Bailey"

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27 (AP)—Politics is running rampant around these parts these days, but the solid "people's cherce" is a little Cuban import who's a whiz at acrobatics.

For some reason or other, Willie Miranda has been able to do nothing wrong, as far as the Baltimore fans are concerned, since he came to the Orioles in that big trade that sent Bob Turley and Don Larson to the Yankees.

It's hard to explain his popularity, unless it's the fielding gems he keeps coming up with at shortstop. His circus catches are commonplace.

Manager Paul Richards refers to Willie as "Barnum and Bailey." "I never have any trouble starting my lineup card," he says. "I just put Old Barnum and Bailey down eighth and start from there."

Cheer Weak Hitter
As an example of what a crowd favorite he is, he came up to bat last week without a hit in his last 42 trips to the plate. There wasn't one boo. Instead, he got a big cheer of encouragement.

"We-e-e-e-e," yelled the crowd. Willie boomed a high, long one out into left center. He was so anxious to stretch it into a triple that he slid in on his face and wrenched his shoulder, forcing him to sit out the next four games.

Yesterday he knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles off Billy Pierce, whom the Orioles hadn't beaten since May, 1954.

When Willie slid into second base on his second double, Nelson Fox fell on him. After the game, Willie nursed a small cut on his wrist and a bruised thumb and remarked:

Fox Steps On Him
"That Fox. He step all over me. My thumb, she pretty sore."

Willie has stoutly maintained since he came here nearly two years ago that the switch from the Yankees—where he was second choice to Phil Rizzuto—was the best thing that ever happened to him.

The little Cuban sparkplug has one of the lowest batting averages on a weak-hitting team—less than .220. Baltimore is hungry for hits, and is ready to take anyone to its heart who can slap out a few.

But there's little doubt even another Mickey Mantle could displace the little guy in an Oriole fan's heart.

Ben's Eighth Year
The 1956 season marks a milestone in Ben Schwartzwalder's career as Syracuse University football coach. He becomes the third man in the University's 68-year grid history to tutor the Orangemen for as many as eight campaigns. Frank O'Neill and Ossie Solem are the other members of the eight-year-club.

Hopalong's Awards
DETROIT — Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy of the Detroit Lions was named for the Heisman Trophy, the Maxwell Award, the United Press "Player of the Year," and the Associated Press "Man of the Year" award in 1955 at Ohio State.

Terps, Syracuse Even
Both Syracuse and Maryland hope to edge ahead in their all-time grid rivalry when they clash in College Park, Md. on Sept. 22. The series now stands at 3-3-1.

Robinson Makes Peace With IBC, Will Fight Fullmer In New York

Champion Changes Mind About Fighting On Pacific Coast

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson threw in the towel today and agreed to defend his title against Gene Fullmer under the sponsorship of the International Boxing Club.

Two weeks ago to the day, Robinson washed his hands of the IBC and Jim Norris, its president, because, he said, he couldn't get enough money from them. At that time he said he would fight for Cal Eaton in Los Angeles.

IBC officials privately said they thought he was bluffing. They held an exclusive contract for the ex-dancing man's services, but merely sat back to await developments.

Ready To Fight
"I'm ready, willing and able to defend my title on Sept. 25 or later at the Yankee Stadium," Robinson said he wired Norris.

His terms include 47½ per cent of the net, plus 60 per cent of all money received from theater or home television with a minimum of $60,000.

Sugar Ray's business adviser, Joe Glaser, said Norris had offered a TV guarantee of $50,000. But it is doubtful if he will let a matter of $10,000 keep him from signing.

Whatever motivated Robinson to eat humble pie, no one would say. But one good guess would be the IBC's indifference to his threats of fighting for someone else. The IBC bigwigs were certain that he couldn't make more money anywhere else and, in effect, told him:

"So long, it was nice knowing you."

Sugar Ray moodily complained that he still does not think he can be held to the contract he has with the IBC.

"The contract has been discussed," he said, "and I can say no more than that court action is not to be preferred now. I won't resort to legal action unless absolutely necessary."

But, he added, the fact that he was making peace with the IBC did not mean that his views on the validity of the contract had changed.

"I think it was a wise decision," said his attorney, Emil Ellis, who was standing at his elbow.

Fullmer Agrees
Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, is willing to fight under Robinson's conditions just to get a shot at the title. He agreed to 12½ per cent of the gate—under the challenger's normal 20 per cent—because of his anxiety to get in the ring with the champion. The IBC also takes a dim view of this but is going along because Fullmer agreed to it.

No IBC officials were available for comment.

Womble To Resume Running Exercises

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 27 (AP)—Veteran halfback Royce Womble of the Baltimore Colts, whose injured knee was operated on last month, says he is about ready to resume running exercises.

During his rehabilitation period, Womble has been lifting weights attached to a boot contraption as prescribed by trainer Ed Block.

Block told Womble he could start running when he was able to lift 25 pounds with his knee muscles. Womble is now up to 26 pounds and says his leg "never felt better."

Dr. E. T. McDonnell plans to examine the leg tomorrow. But even if he gives his approval, Womble probably won't see any game action until the Colts open the National Football League season in Baltimore on Sept. 30 against the Chicago Bears.

The airbrake was invented by George Westinghouse, Jr., in 1869.

Vincent Fiegle, Corriarville, Md., vs. Iva S. Fiegle, Address unknown, No. 24607 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the defendant by the complainant. The Bill states that the complainant was married to the defendant, an adult, whose maiden name was Iva S. Shears, in Cumberland, Maryland, by a minister, on December 14, 1946, and that no children were born of the marriage; that although the complainant's conduct towards the defendant was kind, affectionate and above reproach, yet the defendant has committed adultery with divers persons, and he has not cohabited with man and wife with the defendant since discovering said adulterous conduct, nor in any manner condoned the same; and that complainant has been a bona fide resident of Allegany County, Maryland, for more than one year prior to the filing of this action; and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland; and that her present address is unknown. IT IS THEREUPON, This 13th day of August, 1956, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in equity, ordered that the complainant, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 14th day of September, 1956, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and purpose of this bill, warning her to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 2nd day of October, 1956, to show cause, if any she may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Hot Stove Series Game Postponed Until Today At 8

The opening game of the Hot Stove Baseball League's final playoff series between the Times-News and B'nai B'rith was postponed last evening on account of wet grounds and is rescheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock following the Dapper Dan Little League game between the Red Sox and Athletics at Penn Avenue Field.

B'nai B'rith advanced to the finals by defeating Exchange Club in two out of three games. The Newsies won two straight from the Rotary Club to reach the finals.

Hub City Bets Near 4 Million

Handle $3,754,415, Meet To End Today

Hagerstown's first 12-day race meeting will draw to a close today and indications are that the mutuel handle will top the four million dollar mark.

A total of $332,394 was wagered on the eight races yesterday, upping the 11-day mutuel handle to $3,754,415, which means that $245,585 is needed to hit the four million dollar mark.

The big day was Saturday when a crowd of 11,500 wagered $517,000. The ten-day total, however, failed to reach the all-time mark established in 1954 at the Hub City track.

Yesterday's attendance was 6,208. Total attendance for the 11 days is 78,181.

Maryland's next 12-day session opens at Timonium on Wednesday. Cumberland follows Timonium on September 12.

Pairings Made For Playgrounds' Net Tournament

The City Recreation playground tennis champions, in the three age groups, from four sections of the city: North End, Dingle, Fort Hill and Gephart, will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, on the five courts at Fort Hill school.

The best boy and girl players in the city will be decided this year by an elimination tournament in each of three age groups: 16, 17, 18 ages, 13, M. 15 division and 10, 11, 12 juniors. The recent winners on the various courts will compete in this tournament starting Wednesday.

The first round drawings for the boys and girls double championships are as follows:

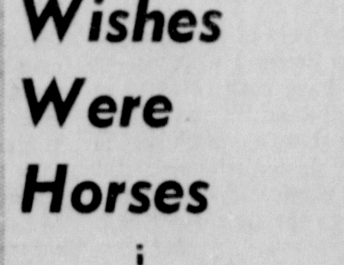

North End boys: "Bill" Sitter and Joe McDade play Leland Ransom and Ed Barley. Girls: Carol Ransom and Sally Ransom meet Arlene Green and Sandra Roeder.

Dingle girls: Maureen Miller and Beverly Bowie play Lucille and Helen Wanless. Boys: Glen Bastian and Bucky Grimes meet Tom Bootman and John Stallings.

Gephart boys: Doug Sullivan and Richard Love play "Bill" Schute and Jerry McGreevy. Girls: Susan Bell and Linda Cooper meet Mary Beth Sheehy and Marcia Key Mowery.

Fort Hill boys: James Twigg and James O'Neal play "Bill" Brown and Mat Coffey. Girls: Linda Proudfoot and Brenda Johnson meet Carol Dunlap and Patty King.

Moose Evens Series With Eagles, 8-7

Come From Behind Twice To Bag Win

Rallying for all their runs in the last two innings, the Loyal Order of Moose came from behind to whip the Fraternal Order of Eagles yesterday at Stitzer Field by the score of 8-7 and squared up their Rocking Chair Softball League series at one victory each.

Singles by Bob Dickel and Pete Cecil produced the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the 7th inning.

Jim Gaffney, Eagles' ace, pitched hitless and runless ball and was leading by the score of 3-0 going into the sixth inning when the roof fell on him. Three bases on balls coupled with singles by Dickel and Cecil, a double by Speir and a triple by Thompson gave the Moose six runs in the big inning.

The Eagles, however, came back with four runs in the top of the 7th to take a 7-6 lead. With the score knotted at 6-6, none out and a runner on second base, Jim "Tiger" Angellata replaced Bill Thompson on the mound for the Moose. Two errors produced the seventh run before Angellata retired the side.

In the last of the seventh Becker drew a pass and advanced to second on Head's sacrifice. Young and Angellata drew passes, filling the bases. Then hits by Dickel and Cecil decided the issue.

Angellata received credit for the win which evened up accounts for the 13-3 licking the Moose received at the hands of the Eagles in the series opener.

Cecil and Dickel of the Moose and Dean, Comer and Aman of the Eagles collected two hits each. Gaffney walked eight and struck out one. Thompson issued two bases on balls.

The third and deciding game of the series is scheduled for today at 6 p. m. at Stitzer Field. The winner will play the Outdoor Club in the finals of the playoffs. Score:

EAGLES..... 820 001 4-7-9 2
MOOSE..... 000 006 2-8-6 3
Gaffney and Comer, Thompson, Jim Angellata (7) and Speir.
WP—Jim Angellata.

Archers Turkey Shoot Is Won By Keefeauver
Don Keefeauver of Potomac took top honors in the turkey shoot held Sunday by the Cumberland Royal Archers at the Allegany Beagle Club, McMillen Highway. Gift certificates for first and second prizes in the adult class and first prize in the junior class will be given out at the next meeting of the archers on Sunday. All archers are welcome to participate.

Few Interceptions
DETROIT — Harry Gilmer of the Detroit Lions intercepted 122 passes during the 1955 season and had only four intercepted.

Curt Wallops Four In 7-Inning Game
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27 (INS)—Second Baseman Curt Roberts of Columbus tied an International League record tonight by clouting four homers in the seven-inning first game of a doubleheader with Havana.

The Jets won, 10 to 7. Roberts, former Pittsburgh infielder, hit his homers in the first, second, fourth and sixth innings. Two came with a man on base, and the fourth put the Jets ahead to stay in the see-saw slugfest.

Roberts is the fifth International League player to hit four homers in a game since 1885. Russell (Buzz) Arlett of Baltimore performed the feat twice during the 1932 season.

Roy Campanella's 3-Run Single Beats Milwaukee, 6-3

Bessent Stars In Relief Role As Brooks Win

Snider Socks 35th Homer, Adcock 34th; Gene Conley Loser

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27 (P)—Roy Campanella, coming to the plate after an intentional pass to Jackie Robinson had loaded the bases with two out, lined a three-run eighth-inning single today that broke up a tie game and boosted the second place Brooklyn Dodgers into a 6-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The defeat slimmied the Braves' National League lead to two games against the Cardinals.

Campanella, who had gone hitless in seven trips in the two game series, slammed his hit to left center. Two runs scored easily and Robinson, who still can turn on the speed at 37, also scored when the relay from the outfield was wide.

Beat Conley 5th Time
The three-run outburst against big Gene Conley, who dropped his fifth start in a row against the world champions, complete a batting comeback by the Brooks, who had trailed 3-0 after four innings.

Joe Adcock's 33rd home run and Bobby Thomson's 18th had built the Braves' lead against Don Newcombe, who has won 20. Duke Snider, the National League leading homer hitter, then got the Dodgers started with his 35th, a two-run shot, against Conley in the sixth.

Bessent Is Victor
Don Bessent, who shut out the Braves over the last four innings to run his scoreless string to 25, picked up his first victory of the season in relief of Newcombe. Conley absorbed his eighth loss against seven victories.

Three of the Braves' first five hits off Newcombe were for extra bases. Adcock's solo homer in the second landed some 10 rows up in the left centerfield bleachers, about 415 feet from the plate. It was big Joe's 11th off Brooklyn pitching this season.

Thomson Hits Homer
Thomson's homer, with two out in the fourth, reached the Braves' bullpen. Eddie Mathews was on base after a single. Billy Bruton then doubled off the left centerfield fence and Del Crandall was walked intentionally before Newcombe retired Conley on a pop.

Newcombe, who had won his last eight starts on the road and had a 12-2 overall record away from Ebbets Field and a 20-6 season mark, went out for a pinch-hitter in the sixth after giving up three runs on six hits. He struck out five, including Hank Aaron twice, and walked one intentionally.

Braves Hold Edge
With the victory, Brooklyn moved two full games ahead of third place Cincinnati, idle today, while gaining a split in the Dodgers' last series at County Stadium this season. The Braves lead the Brooks 11-9 for the season, having taken seven of the 11 games played here.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding: South 1 no trump Double 3 no trump Pass

Opening lead: Nine of spades. The 13th of last month fell on a Friday and was the occasion for a superstition defying party given by my friends, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frey of Great Neck, L. I. That we were 13 at dinner could be expected under the circumstances, but the number heretofore has not cast any evil spell upon me. My life master number happens to be 13. Then too, in three of the most important team championships which it was my good luck to win, we carried the No. 13.

I began to take a dim view of this number, however, when we sat down after dinner to a bit of bridge and I absorbed a 13 point thrashing on the very first rubber. It was at the hands of my host who appears to have lost none of the adroitness which he manifested in helping the Four Aces to their remarkable string of victories in the early '30s. Mr. Frey sat South. West's double of the opening no trump bid indicates a somewhat festive nature. North's raise to three no trump is quaint; a redoubt would have resulted in a pen-

CABLE "TV"
Has so much in its TREASURE CHEST — for you and all your family!

The fall and winter shows are beginning to return—Football is just around the corner—many more spectaculars will be seen, than ever before—baseball will keep getting more competitive until the last day of the World Series—and the Political Picture will not let up until the last vote is counted Election Night!

Every man, woman and child needs Television! —is the opinion of leaders in education, social and economic groups—in Cumberland you certainly need Cable TV to get good Television and a full variety of programs to select from.—and Cumberland's Cable TV Service is economical too, only $10.82 for 18 months, then only $4.32 monthly. A FREE demonstration during the calendar month of installation, is yours if you will give us a telephone call.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mabel W. Smith, who died 4 years ago on August 27, 1952. It's been 4 years to the very day. That you closed your eyes forever, mother dear, I still will not say. And as time goes by, I still will not say. I miss your smile, and all your fears. I miss for all the ones you had so near. And if time and sickness could be erased, But memories linger on, so rest in peace. To be seen once more on God's Day of Grace. Sadly missed by Her Daughter & Grandchildren

In Memoriam
In memory of Mabel V. Smith, who died 4 years ago on August 27, 1952. It's been 4 years to the very day. That you closed your eyes forever, mother dear. And as time goes by, I still will always say. I miss your smile, and all your fears. You had for all the ones you had so near. And if time and sickness could be erased. To have you back again would be joy unexpressed. But memories linger on, so rest in peace. Be seen once more on God's Day of Grace.
Sadly missed by

Driver Strangles in Wreckage As Auto Upsets

William P. Murphy
Was B&O Employee

A 54-year-old local man strangled to death yesterday afternoon in the wreckage of his car after it ran off U. S. 40 about two miles east of Cumberland.

He was William Patrick Murphy, 113 North Chase Street, who was driving alone at the time of the accident, about 3:35 p. m.

Death, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, was caused by asphyxia due to strangulation. Murphy's neck was caught between the edge of the flooring of the car and the right front door.

Hits Embankment

Maryland State Police who investigated the accident said Murphy was traveling toward Cumberland when his car, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, ran off the north side of the road, hit an embankment, careened back across the highway and hurtled some 80 feet down a bank and through a number of small trees.

They said the car came to a stop on its right side. Murphy was reported to have been in the Flintstone area on business, and was returning to Cumberland.

An autopsy was performed at Memorial Hospital by Dr. Benedict Skitlarec, pathologist, and Dr. Deming to ascertain the cause of death.

Investigating officer was Trooper Lindberg D. Cook.

Was Crane Operator

Murphy was a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crane operator. He had been on furlough. He worked at Keyser for the past year and had worked here prior to that for about five years as a crane operator.

A native of Franklin, Md., Mr. Murphy was a son of Mrs. Mary Catherine (Murphy) Murphy and the late William P. Murphy.

He was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society, and of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Surviving besides his mother, are his wife, Mrs. Carissima N. (Sheridan) Murphy and a daughter, Miss Nancy M. Murphy, at home.

The body is at the George Funeral Home.

Winners Of Pigeon Race Announced

"Lonaconing Pride," owned by Galen Beaman of the Town View Loft, flew home first over the weekend and captured the first Young Bird Race of the 1956 series sponsored by the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club.

The bird flew a rate of 1135.85 yards per minute from the starting point, West Union, W. Va., to its destination, a distance of 100 miles.

Some 325 birds of 16 lofts, the largest number ever to fly in a local race, were in competition with one another. Second place winner was "Valiant Lady," owned by A. A. Ambrose, of the Gilmore Valley Loft.

Other top winners were "Bound Dog," owned by M. M. Green of the Excello Loft; "Miss Pittsburgh," owned by R. L. Spiker, Wing Ridge Loft; "Black Jack," Gilmore Valley Loft; "White Streak," owned by Charles Buskirk, Calla Loft.

"Rozz Jr.," owned by Dudley Shafer, Lost Loft; "Gurney Red," C. A. Smith, of MacArthur Loft; "Stassart," Wing Ridge Loft; "Charcoal Jr.," Robert Kiffner, Columbia Loft; "Grasshopper," same loft, and "Adolph," Irvin Buskirk, Woodland Loft.

The next race will be another 100-mile race from West Union on September 9. The birds in the first race were scattered with winners turning in average speeds for the race. They were liberated at 9 a. m. Sunday with slightly foggy conditions prevailing at the start.

Core Drilling Work Begins

Core drillings are being made for the Corps of Engineers on the pier foundations of the Western Maryland Railway bridge at Baltimore Street.

The work is being done by crews of the Froehling and Robertson firm of Richmond, Va.

Flex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said the drilling is being done to determine if the foundations are solid concrete and if they rest on solid rock.

Results of the tests will determine whether or not the foundations will need protection, such as steel piling, during construction in Section 4 of the Wills Creek channel phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project.

Dexter said the drilling work should be completed in a few weeks.

Official At ABL Plant Transferred To Alabama

Robert E. Good, 912 Gephart Drive, administrative assistant at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, at Pinto for about four years, is being transferred to the Hercules Powder Company commercial plant at Bessemer, Ala.

In his new assignment, Good will be assistant plant manager, according to C. P. Butler, director of operations of the explosives department of the Hercules Company.

Good said last night that his new job will be effective as of September 1, and that he and his wife and two children expect to leave Cumberland this weekend for Alabama.

He was located in Bessemer before and worked there about two and a half years as plant chemist. He also has been located at plants in Jacksonville, Ind. and Kendall, N. J.

A native of Wilmington, Del., he graduated from the University of Delaware, where he received a degree in chemical engineering.

While a resident of Cumberland, Good joined the Maplehurst Country Club of Frostburg, and said he managed to get in a short season of golf this year.

Kidwell is a stillman in Solvent Recovery, where he has worked since August 1931. He is married to the former Geraldine Brandt, and they have three daughters, who are students of Fort Hill and Virginia Avenue schools. His social activities include membership in the Goodfellowship Club.

Wheeler is a welder in the Central Workshops. He served his apprenticeship at the B. & O. Railroad. He is married and has one daughter and one granddaughter. His hobbies are fishing and wood-working.

W. D. Claus, plant engineer, also awarded Wheeler a gold five-star Celanese emblem of 25 years service, and a certificate.

Hugo Keller, manufacturing supervisor of Solvent Recovery, made similar awards to Kidwell.

Three Injured In Accidents

Three persons were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday after being injured in accidents.

Mrs. Amelia Kohl, 84, of 16 LaVale Street, LaVale, injured her hip when she fell yesterday afternoon at her home. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of her injuries. Her condition is listed as "fair."

An Altoona, Pa., man was injured in an unusual accident while changing a tire on his automobile outside the city. Robert Lalley, 25, of 128 Hill View Drive, Altoona, was struck on the head by the car jack after it had slipped off the bumper. He was admitted for X-rays and observation of his head injuries.

In another accident, Miss Rita Coyle, 20, of 717 St. Mary's Avenue, was admitted after injuring her back. She had been on a family picnic at Maryland, and fell from a swing.

Rotation Units Open To Ex-GIs

SFC Gene Cobb, local U.S. Army recruiter, announces that prior service military occupation servicemen may re-enlist in Gyroscopic units that are rotating to Europe during 1957.

The local recruiter explained that ex-servicemen were not being taken in these rotation troops before but that certain units are now open for re-enlistees.

Any specialty trained personnel discharged not less than two days nor more than 12 months may apply for re-enlistment into the 568th Quartermaster Company, 510th Quartermaster Company, and 157th Quartermaster Company at Fort Lee, Va.; the Sixth Transportation Corps Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Fifth Transportation Corps Company, 32d Transportation Corps Company, 126th Transportation Corps Company, and 29th Transportation Corps Company, all at Fort Eustis, Va.

Plans for drills on the radios among the companies were discussed. Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker of the local fire department was present and assured those in attendance that he and the department would help in every way possible in such drills.

To Close Saturday

Trial Magistrates Court will be closed this Saturday and Monday, Labor Day. It will be open again Tuesday.

Police Check Money Thefts

City police are checking two reports of thefts of money the past weekend.

Officials of the Pepsi Cola Bottling plant at South Chase Street and Paca Street reported yesterday that someone entered the office rooms of the plant sometime Saturday or Sunday.

The culprits removed a set of keys to a metal cabinet in the office from a desk there. The cabinet was opened and a money bag was removed. A check revealed that $73.50 had been taken from the money bag, and the sack had been replaced in the cabinet. The keys also had been returned to their place in the office desk.

Also being investigated by the detective bureau is the disappearance of $73 from a man's wallet in the Brooks Hotel sometime yesterday morning.

Norman Hall reported he hung his trousers on the back of his room door, and while he was out of the bedroom momentarily someone removed his wallet from the hip pocket, took the $73 and placed the wallet back in the pocket.

Firemen Select Radio Chief

Floyd Harper, city, was named radio maintenance man of the communications committee of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association during a meeting last night at LaVale fire hall.

Some 10 of the 14 fire companies equipped with radios on fire fighting equipment were represented at the meeting.

Harper will be in-charge of the maintenance of the radios for a period of a year. Also attending the meeting was George Kump of Deer Park, president of the two-county organization.

David E. Kirk of Barton was named communication officer of the communication committee, while Cromwell Zembower, LaVale, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Everett Driver Hurt In Fatal Highway Crash

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP)—A Maryland woman was killed and a tractor-trailer driver was injured today as the truck jackknifed into the woman's oncoming auto on Route 322 near Bigler, about 12 miles east of here, State Police said.

Mary R. Parrish of Upperco, Md., died without regaining consciousness in Clearfield Hospital a short while after the crash. She had been driving alone and was identified by papers found on her person.

The truck driver, Donald Weimer of Everett, Pa., was admitted to the hospital with a shoulder fracture.

State Police said Weimer lost control of the tractor an empty flat-bed trailer when the rig passed over a railroad grade crossing. Officers said the trailer swung into a guard rail then jackknifed across the highway into the Parrish machine.

YMCA Gym And Pool Are Being Redecorated

The Central YMCA swimming pool, gymnasium and youth lobby are being renovated and nearly all youth activities at the Y will be curtailed for two weeks.

The annual fall renovation began yesterday and YMCA officials hope to have the facilities ready for use by Monday, September 10.

All physical education department activities have been cancelled for the two weeks, James Fortner, program secretary of the YMCA, said last night.

Members of the Y staff are painting the gym floor, walls and balcony. The floor will be refined for various games which are played on it. The pool is being drained and cleaned. New tile will be used to repair the pool where needed.

Locker facilities in the men's and boys' locker rooms will be repainted and repaired. Women's facilities also will be retouched if possible in the two weeks' time.

Repairs and repainting of the youth lobby on the main floor already are under way and it is expected they also will be completed shortly.

All gym and swim classes have been called off. The weekly Rec Club dance scheduled this Friday has been cancelled, but will be held next week on September 7.

H. D. Barber To Head Chest Sales Army

Workers Will Contact
700 Small Businesses

Harold D. Barber, 628 Fayette Street, will be chairman of the Sales Army in the 1956-57 Community Chest campaign, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman.

Barber's appointment completes the selection of top leaders in the Chest campaign which is tentatively scheduled to open October 9.

Other top leaders will be Edmund S. Burke, Advance Gifts chairman; Dr. Lillian C. Compton, who will head the Women's division; and Woodward D. Pealer and Edward L. Ewald, named co-chairmen for the Classified section of the campaign.

Is Veteran Worker

A veteran of five Chest campaigns, Barber is a member of the sales promotion and advertising department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Chest, and is president of Central YMCA and the Cumberland Rotary Club.

At present, he is completing his duties as chairman of the Chest's Business Sponsor Program.

As a result of this work held during recent months, the committee has signed up 125 firms as Business Sponsors of the Chest.

To See 700 Firms

The sponsors, about half of them in the Sales Army's field, have promised to cooperate with the Chest by payroll deductions and in employee solicitation.

Barber's committee will have a big part in the drive. It will contact some 700 firms which have fewer than 10 employees.

Last year, the Sales Army raised $6,763 of the $115,925 pledged to help the support of the nine local Red Feather agencies.

For the Y, Barber has conducted Sample Fairs during the past three years to raise funds for remodeling Central YMCA facilities.

Pair Will Face Robbery Charge

Two Indiana men being held in Kingsport, Tenn., where they were apprehended Saturday on a motor vehicle violation, have indicated they will waive extradition to face armed robbery charges here.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lila said Tennessee authorities were instructed to obtain the waivers and that either State Police officers or sheriff's deputies probably will be sent to Tennessee to pick up the two men.

The pair, James Fox, 22, of Muncie, Ind., and Charles Rash, 17, of Fort Wayne, Ind., were quoted as telling Tennessee authorities they were involved in an armed holdup of a service station in Cumberland on August 22.

Donald Helmick, 19, of 411 Greene Street, the station attendant, was robbed of $79.33 by a young man who held him up at gunpoint and escaped in a car which reportedly had been stolen in Michigan. A second man was said to be the driver of the escape car.

Warrants were issued for the pair yesterday.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Convention

The Cumberland congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses plans to attend the assembly at New Eagle, Pa., August 31-September 2, according to the presiding minister, Nick Falbo.

All the features of the regular training program will be covered during the three days in the volunteer firemen's hall, beginning Friday at 7 p. m. These meetings will be under the direction of L. L. Roper, district supervisor from New York, and his assistant, Kenneth G. Kiesel, circuit minister.

One of the features will be the new film "The Happiness of the New World Society," and all interested persons may see it on Saturday evening. The climax of the assembly will be Sunday at 3 p. m. when 1,200 persons are expected to be in attendance to hear the discourse, "Consulting God on World Affairs," said Falbo.

Work also was being done on electrical work on the main sewerage pumping station, installation of heating piping for digestion tanks and on placing large gravel in the sludge beds.

The 17-yard pour, he said, was followed by an eight-yard pour of concrete for the roof slabs of the wings of the main sewage pumping station.

Other crews were kept busy placing stone paving on the levee which protects the plant from the Potomac River, laying of the Evitts Creek force main and excavating rock for the foundation of the Evitts Creek pumping station.

Polio Shot Plan Moves Ahead Here

Big Strides Are Made During July

Significant progress toward protecting the children of Allegany County from poliomyelitis was noted in a report issued yesterday by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

The report showed that on July 31, 58.7 per cent of all children in the county in the 1 through 15 age group had received one or more inoculations with polio vaccine and that 42.6 per cent of the youngsters had received two or more shots.

This is a significant increase over the status of the polio shot program on June 30, when 46 per cent of the children had received one, and 36 per cent had received two injections of Salk vaccine.

Dr. Frantz said it is estimated that Allegany County has 24,948 children in the 1-15 age groups.

Get First Shot

As of July 31, 14,656 of the children—58.7 per cent—had received one or more shots.

Included were 3,790 youngsters, or 15.2 per cent, who were inoculated with supplies furnished by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Another 2,615, or 10.4 per cent of the children, received shots from supplies distributed by the Health Department.

Driver Strangles in Wreckage As Auto Upsets

William P. Murphy
Was B&O Employee

A 54-year-old local man strangled to death yesterday afternoon in the wreckage of his car after it ran off U. S. 40 about two miles east of Cumberland.

He was William Patrick Murphy, 113 North Chase Street, who was driving alone at the time of the accident, about 3:35 p. m.

Death, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, was caused by asphyxia due to strangulation. Murphy's neck was caught between the edge of the flooring of the car and the right front door.

H. D. Barber To Head Chest Sales Army

Workers Will Contact
700 Small Businesses

Harold D. Barber, 628 Fayette Street, will be chairman of the Sales Army in the 1956-57 Community Chest campaign, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman.

Barber's appointment completes the selection of top leaders in the Chest campaign which is tentatively scheduled to open October 9.

Other top leaders will be Edmund S. Burke, Advance Gifts chairman; Dr. Lillian C. Compton, who will head the Women's division, and Woodward D. Pealer and Edward L. Ewald, named co-chairmen for the Classified section of the campaign.

Is Veteran Worker

A veteran of five Chest campaigns, Barber is a member of the sales promotion and advertising department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Chest, and is president of Central YMCA and the Cumberland Rotary Club.

At present, he is completing his duties as chairman of the Chest's Business Sponsor Program.

As a result of this work held during recent months, the committee has signed up 125 firms as Business Sponsors of the Chest.

To See 700 Firms

The sponsors, about half of them in the Sales Army's field, have promised to cooperate with the Chest by payroll deductions and in employee solicitation.

Barber's committee will have a big part in the drive. It will contact some 700 firms which have fewer than 10 employees.

Last year, the Sales Army raised $6,763 of the $115,925 pledged toward the support of the nine local Red Feather agencies.

For the Y, Barber has conducted Sample Fairs during the past three years to raise funds for remodeling Central YMCA facilities.

Pair Will Face Robbery Charge

Two Indiana men being held in Kingsport, Tenn., where they were apprehended Saturday on a motor vehicle violation, have indicated they will waive extradition to face armed robbery charges here.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lippy said Tennessee authorities were instructed to obtain the waivers and that either State Police officers or sheriff's deputies probably will be sent to Tennessee to pick up the two men.

The pair, James Fox, 22, of Muncie, Ind., and Charles Rash, 17, of Fort Wayne, Ind., were quoted as telling Tennessee authorities they were involved in an armed holdup of a service station in Cumberland on August 22.

Donald Helmick, 19, of 411 Greene Street, the station attendant, was robbed of $79.33 by a young man who held him up at gunpoint and escaped in a car which reportedly had been stolen in Michigan. A second man was said to be the driver of the escape car.

Polio Shot Plan Moves Ahead Here

Big Strides Are Made During July

Significant progress toward protecting the children of Allegany County from poliomyelitis was noted in a report issued yesterday by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

The report showed that on July 31, 58.7 per cent of all children in the county in the 1 through 15 age group had received one or more inoculations with polio vaccine and that 42.6 per cent of the youngsters had received two or more shots.

This is a significant increase over the status of the polio shot program on June 30, when 46 per cent of the children had received one, and 36 per cent had received two injections of Salk vaccine.

Dr. Frantz said it is estimated that Allegany County has 24,948 children in the 1-15 age groups.

As of July 31, 14,656 of the children—58.7 per cent—had received one or more shots.

Included were 3,790 youngsters or 15.2 per cent, who were inoculated with supplies furnished by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Another 2,615, or 10.4 per cent of the children, received shots from supplies distributed by the Health Department.

Another 8,251 children, representing 33 per cent of all in the age group, had received polio shots from their family physicians.

Equally good progress was being made in providing the second of the three shots which have proved to be effective against the ravages of paralytic polio.

At the end of June, 10,617, or 42.6 per cent, of the Allegany County children had received two or more shots.

Included were 2,899 shots provided by the Polio Foundation, 2,106 by the Health Department, and 5,612 by private physicians.

The figures for inoculations are estimates based on the amount of vaccine sent to the county through commercial channels.

Gives 1,173 Shots

Last month, the Health Department gave a total of 1,173 shots in various clinics held throughout the county.

The vaccine was administered, officials said, as fast as it was forwarded by the State Health Department, which has been urging that the program be accelerated to prevent polio attacks anticipated in September through November.

Although the progress reports show only shots given in the 1-15 age group, the vaccine is getting even wider distribution.

Several months ago, as supplies became plentiful, health authorities extended the eligible list to include all down to three months and up through 19, and all pregnant women.

This county is still behind the state in its polio prevention program. On July 31, the State Health Department estimated that 66.3 per cent of Maryland's 1-15 youngsters had received one of more shots and 54.8 per cent at least two shots.

Husband Held In Shooting Of Wife, Youth

Victims' Conditions
Are 'Satisfactory'

A 48-year-old woman and an 18-year-old boy were hospitalized with shotgun pellet wounds last night at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, and police held the woman's husband for questioning in the shooting, which occurred at Deep Creek Lake.

Reported in "satisfactory" condition at the hospital are Mrs. John Guthrie Luke II, 48, and Kermit Wayne Wildman, 18, of Luke, Md.

Husband Is Jailed

Being held in Garrett County Jail in connection with the shooting is John Guthrie Luke II, who will be questioned this morning by State's Attorney Richard Pagenhardt.

Luke, according to Cpl. Sam Conrad of the Maryland State Police, who is investigating, will be given a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate William Bitzer.

Police said no formal charge had been placed against Luke, who reportedly used a 410-gauge shotgun in the shooting, which occurred in the yard of his home just off Glendale Road on Deep Creek Lake.

Police said the shooting apparently stemmed from an argument between Luke and his wife.
